Conferences To Settle
Many Important Questions Before London Assemblage in January.

ORIENTALS TO ASK 10-10-7 AS RATIO

Full Support of Hoover
Program for Full Cut
Instead of Limitation,
Is Expected.

Washington, November 3.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson, who will head the American delegation to the five-power naval conference meeting in London in January, has begun active preparations for the conference he will have with the members of the Japanese delegation when they arrive in Washington on their way to the British capital.

Two of the most important questions to be taken up at the conference—the ratio between the Japanese navy and the American and British navies and the policy of naval reduction—are expected to be discussed at the meeting between the members of the two missions in Washington.

Lay Ground Work.

The American secretary of state and the advisers of the state and navy departments, who are assisting him in laying the ground work for the work of the American delegation at the London parley, regard the meetings in Washington with the Japanese as an opportunity to talk over various unsettled questions relating to the two navies before the conference meets.

Before the Japanese delegation arrives here the middle of next month, Secretary Stimson expects to have a large number of matters ready for immediate discussion. It is generally expected by American naval circles that the Japanese will enter the London conference anticipating a 10-10-7 ratio between the American, British and Japanese navies rather than the 5-5-3 ratio established for capital ships at the Washington arms conference.

The question is expected to be discussed fully by President Hoover, Secretary Stimson and Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Robinson, of Arkansas, the senatorial members of the delegation already chosen by President Hoover, and the former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki and Admiral Hara Takarabe, Japanese minister of marine, the two Japanese delegates.

For Full Reduction.

Full support of President Hoover's policy of naval reduction in place of mere limitation is expected from the Japanese.

A strong sentiment for reduction was expressed by the Japanese government in its reply to the British invitation to the parley.

The Japanese delegation to the conference is expected to be composed of some 70 persons, including a large staff of technical advisers.

While Japanese will sail for the conference at approximately the same time as the American delegation, some doubts were expressed by American officials tonight that both delegations would sail on the same transatlantic liner.

So far there has been no decision regarding the ship on which the American delegation, which is expected to include about 30 persons, will sail for London.

DOG, SLEEPING ON CAR TRACKS, CAUSES CRASH

New York, November 3.—(AP)—A police dog that used the tracks of Bay Ridge elevated line in Brooklyn as a place for a nap today caused a rear end collision of two one-car elevated trains and slight injury to eight persons.

As one of the trains rounded a curve Motorman Hanson Hume saw a figure on the tracks. He stopped the train to make sure it was not a man. Ten minutes were consumed in capturing the dog and putting him on the train.

Just as the train was about to start off again, another one-car train rounded the curve and crashed into the first train. Eight persons were injured, none seriously. Motorman Hume, who suffered a sprained shoulder, was the most seriously hurt.

While an ambulance physician attended the injured dog ran away.

BINGHAM FACES VOTE OF CENSURE IN SENATE TODAY

Senator Brookhart Also Will Be Quizzed Before
Grand Jury About Senatorial Liquor.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, November 3.—(United News).—Senate interest this week will be concerned principally with two of its own members, strangely dissimilar characters—the tall, polished scholar Bingham, of Connecticut, and the stocky, outspoken, farm bloc senator, Brookhart, of Iowa—whose boast is that he never wore a dress suit. They both occupy seats on the back row of the senate.

Bingham will come first. He will appear before his colleagues tomorrow to face a vote of censure by them for his employment of the secretary of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, Charles L. Evanson, as his own "secretary" and tariff expert. The resolution by Senator Norris, judiciary committee chairman, is assured of passage.

On Wednesday Brookhart will go before a grand jury here to tell "all he knows" about a senatorial dinner three years ago at which he told the senate recently liquor was dispensed in flasks. His testimony may result in calling Walter Fahy, New York broker, whom Brookhart named as host at the dinner.

Both these incidents have stirred the membership of the senate as never in recent years. In both cases, the far-famed "senatorial courtesy" has gone by the boards, apparently.

The scene in the senate tomorrow promises to be dramatic. It is the first time in 27 years that a senator has been called to account thus publicly by his colleagues. Such instances have been rare in the country's history.

Blow.

Public censure by his colleagues will, naturally, be a blow to Bingham but he refused to avert it by an apology. Failing to induce him to apologize, his friends then sought to soften the blow by changing the word "condemn" in Norris' resolution to "disapprove," but the Nebraska senator refused. If an attempt is made to amend the resolution to this effect, some of those who have condemned Bingham's action so strongly may offer an amendment to deprive him of his place on the finance committee.

Censure has been followed by resignation, but there was no resignation as result of the last censure, that of Senators Tillman and McLaughlin, of South Carolina, in 1902. Bingham is not expected to resign, since he has maintained stoutly there was no intention of wrongdoing in his employment of Evanson.

The well-known "senatorial courtesy" did not operate when Bingham went before the lobby investigating committee, where he was very roughly handled. Subsequently, a merciless fire was directed at him when he was subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury to tell about his colleagues who drink, but this came only after he had made the offer several weeks ago to "tell," and had chided the district attorney recently because he had not been called. Threats have been made by members of congress in the past to tell on their colleagues, but they never have been carried out.

Dry-droppers who drink will watch the grand jury proceedings anxiously, all except one, Senator Blaise, of South Carolina, who has admitted publicly he takes a drink occasionally.

Group Reporting Incomes
of $50,000 to $100,000 a
Year Paid in Bulk of Revenue.

Washington, November 3.—How the high tide of prosperity of recent years has increased the number of millionaires in this country is shown in an analysis of income tax returns for 1927, made public today by the treasury.

There were 33,695 persons reporting incomes between $50,000 and $100,000 in 1927, an increase of 3,573 over 1926. This is usually regarded as the "millionaire" class, as it represents an income of 5 per cent and higher on $1,000,000 and upward.

The number who paid taxes on incomes actually exceeding a million dollars in 1927 was 230, which is 58 more than for the previous year. Net incomes between $500,000 and $1,000,000 were reported by 557 individuals.

In an aggregate of 4,101,547 taxpayers who paid $850,630,454 in taxes for 1927, more than one-fourth of the taxpayers had net incomes of between $3,000 and $5,000, and another one-fourth paid taxes on net incomes of only $1,000 to $2,000. Three-fourths of the taxpayers were listed in the income groups below $5,000.

Paid Most Revenue.

Most of the revenue collected from individuals was paid by those having incomes between $50,000 and $100,000 in 1927, or 18 per cent of all taxes paid. Eleven per cent or $98,657,337 of individual tax payments were made by the super-millionaires with incomes of more than $1,000,000 annually. Nearly three-fourths of all individual taxes were paid by those in the millionaire class, the report showed.

Corporation tax returns for 1927 aggregated 475,031, of which 259,849 were from corporations aggregating $8,081,881,261 and paid taxes of $1,130,674,118. For the preceding year corporations filed 455,320 returns, aggregating $7,891,448,780 and paid taxes of $1,229,797,243.

Manufacturing concerns turned in $507,734,510, which was 41 per cent, the largest single proportion, of the corporation taxes for 1927. Transportation agencies and other public utilities were second in corporation tax payments with $210,877,896, or 18 per cent of the total collected from corporations in that year.

Forty-five per cent of the 475,031 corporations filing returns had net incomes remaining to be taxed, after exemptions and deductions allowed by tax laws, had been made.

Wages and Salaries.

Analyzing the returns by individuals from the standpoint of income sources, the report showed that 38.38 per cent, or $10,218,448,780 of the individual incomes was derived from wages and salaries. The second largest source of taxpayer's income was dividends on stock of United States corporations, which accounted for 16.24 per cent or $4,257,828,886 of all individual incomes.

Total income received by individual taxpayers in 1927 from all sources was $26,208,560,568, of which $22,545,090,535 was taxable after the normal deductions and exemptions.

Joint returns by husbands and wives accounted for nearly half of the more than 4,000,000 individual tax payments with $210,877,896, or 18 per cent of all individual returns.

Washington, November 3.—(AP)—A coalition confident that a tariff bill designed for agriculture's benefit will be passed at the special session and an administration group willing to let the opposition have its way will go into the senate tomorrow determined to place a new customs revision act on the statute books before the dawn of the new year.

Only four weeks remain of the special session and a huge task faces the tariff lawmakers to get the Hawley-Smoot measure to such a stage that it will not interfere seriously with the regular session program. But party and group leaders, after weeks of futile effort to make real headway, now see a ray of hope for early final action through the decision of the republican regulars to let the coalition write its own bill in the hope that some compromise might be reached in conference.

Better, Says Harrison.

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, one of the democratic tariff spokesmen, predicted today that when the pending bill leaves the senate it would be a great improvement over the measure passed by the house and that offered in the senate by its finance committee.

"With those who framed the bill having run up the white flag of surrender," Harrison said, "it ought to be easier for those of us who are opposed to many features of the bill to present and press to early completion our suggestion for revisions."

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee said it appeared now that the coalition had agreed to let the bill pass because of "pressure" aimed to secure some tariff legislation.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, leader of the republican independents, reiterated a belief that a bill could be passed by the senate this session. To get it out of the way, he said.

The democrats, Harrison contended, were trying to work out in conference a compromise between the two bills, but he believed that the necessary debate, expediting the consideration of amendments and hasten the final vote of the bill.

Made Progress.

Despite constant interruptions last week, the bill in Harrison's opinion, made "much progress" by virtue of the adoption of "some very helpful amendments."

"It has been clearly demonstrated," Harrison said, "that the bill as it is now is obnoxious to the senate, and while it will be impossible in the future consideration of many of its provisions for all those who have labored for its revision to agree as to rates or classifications, enough is known to give assurance that when the bill passes the senate it will be a better bill than passed the house and a far better bill than was recommended to the senate by the finance committee."

The action of the democrats throughout the consideration of the bill has been conservative, in keeping with campaign pledges and with an eye singly to justice to every class, section and industry as well as the general welfare of the people of the whole country.

The second largest source of taxpayer's income was dividends on stock of United States corporations, which accounted for 16.24 per cent or $4,257,828,886 of all individual incomes.

Total income received by individual taxpayers in 1927 from all sources was $26,208,560,568, of which $22,545,090,535 was taxable after the normal deductions and exemptions.

Joint returns by husbands and wives accounted for nearly half of the more than 4,000,000 individual tax payments with $210,877,896, or 18 per cent of all individual returns.

DOG, SLEEPING ON CAR TRACKS, CAUSES CRASH

New York, November 3.—(AP)—A police dog that used the tracks of Bay Ridge elevated line in Brooklyn as a place for a nap today caused a rear end collision of two one-car elevated trains and slight injury to eight persons.

As one of the trains rounded a curve Motorman Hanson Hume saw a figure on the tracks. He stopped the train to make sure it was not a man. Ten minutes were consumed in capturing the dog and putting him on the train.

Just as the train was about to start off again, another one-car train rounded the curve and crashed into the first train. Eight persons were injured, none seriously. Motorman Hume, who suffered a sprained shoulder, was the most seriously hurt.

While an ambulance physician attended the injured dog ran away.

ANALYSIS SHOWS REAL PROSPERITY

Group Reporting Incomes
of $50,000 to $100,000 a
Year Paid in Bulk of Revenue.

BY CECIL OWEN,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, November 3.—How the high tide of prosperity of recent years has increased the number of millionaires in this country is shown in an analysis of income tax returns for 1927, made public today by the treasury.

There were 33,695 persons reporting incomes between $50,000 and $100,000 in 1927, an increase of 3,573 over 1926. This is usually regarded as the "millionaire" class, as it represents an income of 5 per cent and higher on $1,000,000 and upward.

The number who paid taxes on incomes actually exceeding a million dollars in 1927 was 230, which is 58 more than for the previous year. Net incomes between $500,000 and $1,000,000 were reported by 557 individuals.

In an aggregate of 4,101,547 taxpayers who paid $850,630,454 in taxes for 1927, more than one-fourth of the taxpayers had net incomes of between $3,000 and $5,000, and another one-fourth paid taxes on net incomes of only $1,000 to $2,000. Three-fourths of the taxpayers were listed in the income groups below $5,000.

Paid Most Revenue.

Most of the revenue collected from individuals was paid by those having incomes between $50,000 and $100,000 in 1927, or 18 per cent of all taxes paid. Eleven per cent or $98,657,337 of individual tax payments were made by the super-millionaires with incomes of more than $1,000,000 annually. Nearly three-fourths of all individual taxes were paid by those in the millionaire class, the report showed.

Corporation tax returns for 1927 aggregated 475,031, of which 259,849 were from corporations aggregating $8,081,881,261 and paid taxes of $1,130,674,118. For the preceding year corporations filed 455,320 returns, aggregating $7,891,448,780 and paid taxes of $1,229,797,243.

Manufacturing concerns turned in $507,734,510, which was 41 per cent, the largest single proportion, of the corporation taxes for 1927. Transportation agencies and other public utilities were second in corporation tax payments with $210,877,896, or 18 per cent of the total collected from corporations in that year.

Forty-five per cent of the 475,031 corporations filing returns had net incomes remaining to be taxed, after exemptions and deductions allowed by tax laws, had been made.

LOST NAVY PLANE TOWED TO PORT BY FRUIT VESSEL

Norfolk, Va., November 3.—(AP)—Lost in the clouds with his fuel supply running low, Ensign George P. Hatfield, pilot of the naval seaplane reported missing Saturday night on a flight from Philadelphia to Norfolk, landed his plane alongside the Commodore Rollins, Norwegian fruit steamer, 15 miles off the Virginia coast Saturday night shortly after 7 o'clock.

Learning his position, Ensign Hatfield requested that he be towed inside the capes and the little fruit steamer, bound from Philadelphia to British Honduras, took the seaplane in tow. Ensign Hatfield, with his two companions, Aviation Machinist's Mate J. F. Reeves and Radioman K. Hair, remained aboard their craft after it was taken in tow. Since the rescue steamer had no wireless, news of the safety of the missing plane and its occupants that she had received at the Hampton Roads naval air station early this morning when five searching planes, which shored off from the local air station at dawn, sighted the steamer with the missing plane in tow.

AX SLAYER GETS DEATH SENTENCE IN CAROLINA COURT

Sanford, N. C., November 3.—(United News).—Because James Spivey, his offers of marriage refused, brained his sweetheart and cousin with an ax, he stands sentenced today to die in the electric chair.

A county jury, out 11 hours after hearing circumstantial evidence that he slew Betty Spivey, his youthful and pretty cousin, and doctors' assertion that she had been criminally attacked previously, returned at 9:15 Saturday night with the first degree murder verdict.

Judge M. V. Barnhill presiding, sentenced Spivey to die, as is obligatory under North Carolina law, setting the date as January 10.

Defense attorneys, after losing a move to have the verdict set aside, filed notice of appeal. Judge Barnhill gave them 60 days to perfect it, automatically staying execution of the sentence.

SHOTGUN GUARDS PATROL TROLLEYS IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, November 3.—(AP)—As efforts to stem the bombing by street car men sympathizers were continued tonight by shotgun armed police detectives, jitney operators awaited a court decision in Public Service's injunction against jitney operations.

No explosive demonstrations were experienced today or last night, when first the armed detectives were placed on patrol by Police Superintendent Theodore Ray, who has threatened a shakeup in the detective department unless an end is brought to the bombings.

The heavily armed detectives, assisted by an increase in the police force, now working ten-hour shifts, were of the opinion that a small organized gang was responsible for the dynamiting, which lately includes both street cars and residences of street car men, none resulting in casualties.

Jitneys have continued operating, although not attracting the trade that accompanied the early stages of the strike, which was called July 2, and operators brought into court for violation of the anti-jitney ordinance which will be handed down by Judge Hugh C. Cagle in civil district court.

BIG OFFER APPRECIATED Readers Must Act Promptly as the Supply Is Dwindling

The great demand for the New World Dictionary which is now being offered to readers of this newspaper has reduced the supply to such an extent that those who have not yet secured a copy should present their coupons at once if they do not wish to be disappointed.

It is most gratifying to note the appreciation of the offer by readers, marked by the eagerness they have shown in taking advantage of it.

It is agreed that the book is wholly deserving of the success which is attending its distribution. The New World Dictionary is new in all that word implies. It is newly compiled, printed from new type, new in contents, and new in the arrangement of helps to the study of language.

It is the new Dictionary for those who wish to keep up with the procession. It contains all the words that will ever be required by the average reader or student, and at the same time the scientific scholar will find words in this Dictionary that are not to be found in any similar volume.

ITALY BACKS DOWN ON MILITARY SERVICE

Washington, November 3.—(AP)—Settlement of the long-standing question of military service in Italy of Italians naturalized in the United States and persons born of Italian parents while in America was indicated tonight in an unofficial statement of the Stefani agency made public today by the Italian embassy.

The statement indicated that Italians naturalized in the two American continents would be free to return with exemption from military service to the land of their nativity.

"The royal Italian government upon examining the proportion between the results of the compulsory conscription and the actual military contingent approved by the financial laws," the statement said, "would have no interest to impose military duties in time of peace to citizens residing in foreign countries, for instance, trans-oceanic countries, in place of citizens residents of nearest countries if not altogether residents of Italy, and therefore, under all circumstances which are not of war, Italian citizens residing on the other side of the ocean, notwithstanding the kind of passport which they might present in Italy, whether issued by Italian authorities or by the authorities of the foreign country where they were born, cannot be considered in excess of the necessity of Italian military service in time of peace, and therefore free from being molested in any way, as far as military service duties are concerned, even just duties provided they have no reference in time of war."

MONEY FOR BONDS FOR MILL STRIKERS TIED UP IN COURT

Charlotte, N. C., November 3.—(AP)—With declaration of Tom P. Jimison, their attorney, that $15,000 advanced by the American Fund for Public Service, Inc., could not be used to make bonds for them pending an appeal to the supreme court, hopes of six National Textile Workers' Union members who were convicted of second degree murder for an early release from jail faded today.

The sum in question, which Jimison now has in his possession, has been attached, he said, by Herbert Gulley, Raleigh detective, who was employed by the international labor defense during the trial of Fred Erwin Beal, the union's southern organizer, and six other union members on charges of second degree murder in connection with the slaying of O. F. Aderholt, Gaston chief of police.

Jimison also said the money would not be released until expenses incurred by attorneys who were employed by the international labor defense to defend Beal and his associates had been met. He said he was aware the money did not come directly from the international labor defense, but that it was given him by that organization.

CUBAN CONGRESS TO OPEN TODAY FOR 6TH SESSION

Havana, November 3.—(AP)—In accordance with the constitution, requiring the national congress to convene the first Monday in November of each year, the sixth national legislature will open tomorrow.

The senate and house of representatives will meet in joint session to hear the presidential address of General Machado reviewing the administration and its progress in legislative labors.

Among the matters confronting the congress is consideration of a bill for creation of a workmen's compensation law; another seeking a retirement act for laborers; and a measure requesting erection of a home for veterans of the wars of liberation.

American Piano Prodigy 12-YEAR-OLD REAL BOY DESPITE GENIUS Makes Carnegie Hall Debut

New York, November 3.—(AP)—Ezra Rachlin, a lank, dark-haired 12-year-old lad who plays football for fun and the piano for a career, made his American musical debut tonight at Carnegie hall.

For three years he has been studying in Berlin with Professor Mayer-Mahr, winning ice skating contests and capturing hockey games on the side. And for the past two weeks since he returned to America, he has been practicing "all hours" for tonight's concert and assembling his neighborhood "football gang" between times.

Ezra Rachlin has been brought up in the shadow of a grand piano. From the time he could talk he scrambled about under the mahogany one in the Los Angeles home where he was born, while his mother, a concert pianist, practiced. His pleading "Play me that"—"play me that" convinced her that he was to be a musician and she began to teach him herself.

Musicians who heard him play at the age of five predicted a career for him. So Mother Rachlin—a diminutive brown-eyed woman—took him to Henry Rothwell, conductor of the Los Angeles Symphony orchestra, for his verdict.

Rothwell was enthusiastic, so enthusiastic that he promised to finance him when the time came for study abroad. Ezra, at the age of eight, was ready to go; he had been sold their home and prepared to accompany him when Rothwell died.

Upon the death of Rothwell, the youngster-pianist's father, a cloak designer, gave up his own plans and remained at home to earn the wherewithal for his son's study in Germany. Last year, after two and a half years' study under Mayer-Mahr, Ezra appeared in concerts in Munich and Berlin. The audiences shouted their approval with "Bravo, little Paderewski."

BLASTS DAMAGE ST. LOUIS THEATERS, MUSICIANS BLAMED

St. Louis, November 3.—(AP)—Two neighborhood picture theaters were damaged by explosions which occurred 30 minutes apart early today. The most beautiful music, Vladimir Horowitz is the greatest living pianist, Goethe's "Faust" the "grandest" piece of literature. And he has a warm affection for Miss Gross' "Nize Baby."

He's glad to be back in America. Berlin is a great place, but all the time he felt like an "Auslander." He was beginning to speak the English with a "sledge-hammer accent," and besides that you can get plenty of peanut butter and brown sugar in America and you can't in Germany.

The first explosion, believed to have been nitroglycerine, was in the projection booth at the Lemay theater. The blast blew a hole in the roof and was felt six or seven blocks away.

Thirty minutes later a similar explosion occurred in the projection booth of the Macklind theater in the southwest part of the city. Damage to both theaters was estimated at $11,000.

Union musicians in many theaters have been out on strike for about six weeks in a dispute over a contract concerning the number of musicians to be employed.

ATTEMPT TO BOMB ITALIAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FAILS

Brussels, November 3.—(AP)—An attempt to bomb the Italian Chamber of Commerce was frustrated last night by a policeman who found the bomb, with smoldering fuse, on the pavement near the entrance to the Italian chamber.

The policeman seized the burning fuse and cut it short, separating the wire from the explosive. The bomb was carried to the police station and dropped it into a bucket of water. The bomb contained ordinary black powder. Police submitted the explosive to an expert, and began an inquiry to identify the authors of the outrage.

Anti-fascist activity in Brussels was manifested strikingly last October 24, when Fernando De Rosa, Italian political refugee, attempted to assassinate Crown Prince Umberto of Italy, while the prince was in the city for announcement of his engagement to marry Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium. Fernando's first shot went wild and he was captured by police.

COLLEEN MOORE - GOES UNDER KNIFE FOR APPENDICITIS

Los Angeles, November 3.—(AP)—Colleen Moore, motion picture actress, was operated upon for appendicitis today at the Hollywood hospital. She suffered attacks in New York city a week ago which caused a hurried return to her home here.

Physicians said Miss Moore's condition was satisfactory. Her husband, John McCormick, film producer, and her mother, Mrs. C. R. Morrison, were at the hospital.

MODERATE PRESS FRIENDLY TO TARDIEU

Organ of French Communists, However, Attacks Premier as "Shark."

Paris, November 3.—(AP)—The moderate press today adopted a friendly tone toward Andre Tardieu and his newly-formed cabinet, predicting that with Aristide Briand in the foreign office, the government would adopt a policy of European conciliation based on the Locarno pact and the Young reparations plan.

The papers also predicted straightforward concentration on preparation for the London naval conference. Leading articles emphasized it was imperative to abandon the political confusion which has reigned in France since the resignation of the Briand cabinet.

The confusion tended to belittle the regime in the eyes of Frenchmen and foreign countries, it was said.

The extremist press, on the contrary, was bitter. One socialist organ called the new cabinet "ridiculous and reactionary, insisting that its formation is the precursor of a violent internal political struggle."

The organ of the communists, whose activities M. Tardieu had combated strenuously, today baptized him "shark," declaring his premiership represents a temporary victory for capitalism and the special interests.

M. Tardieu's friends expected him to refrain from any statement concerning international policies before presenting his ministerial declaration in parliament Thursday. However, he did issue a brief statement:

"Constitution of a cabinet puts an end to the crisis which has lasted too long and which has astonished the country. We must now devote ourselves to examination of international agreements of supreme importance and hope parliament will act with vigor for the good of the country and the continuation of free institutions."

NEW MILL STRIKE IN NORTH CAROLINA

Charlotte, N. C., November 3.—(AP) Officials of the National Textile Workers' Union tonight called a strike at the Leaksville Woolen mills near here. The mill employs about 200 workers.

James Reid, union president, said the strike was called because J. A. Shumate, superintendent of the mill, refused to meet with a union committee for discussion of the need for a lunch period on each shift. Reid estimated 75 per cent of the employees belonged to the union. He said picketing would begin at the mill tomorrow morning when it opens after the week-end here.

Shumate and J. L. Morehead, manager of the mill, declined tonight to comment on the strike.

That gift!

FUNNY how birthdays and all sorts of anniversaries creep up so quietly you never notice them until they're right on top of you. And then, with rather a "gone" feeling, you suddenly realize tomorrow is the day you should remember with a gift.

No need to clap your hat on your head and rush frantically forth to see what you can find. Instead, sit down with The Constitution. It contains just as much news of merchandise as it does news of events. Run through the merchandise news—the advertising. It won't take you long to find just what you want, at the price you want to pay, and you'll know exactly where to get it.

Why not adopt this same method to help you in your regular daily expenditures? Groceries?—Of course they're advertised. House furnishings? Clothes? Books? Musical instruments? When you really consider it, there's hardly a thing you'll ever want you can't find advertised. Just think of the steps and the time you'll save by simply using The Constitution advertisements as a fund of information on where to buy, what to buy and how much to pay!

$4,000,000 GAMBLING HALL OPENS AT NICE

Frank Jay Gould Opens New Palace With Every Gambling Device Except Dice.

Nice, France, November 3.—(United Press.)—Frank Jay Gould's new $4,000,000 gambling palace opened at tea time today with international social personages, millionaires and sportsmen crowding the marble gaming rooms.

Bejeweled women possessing the gambling fever fought side by side with men to make the first stake in accordance with a superstition that the first bet at the new casino would bring a season of luck.

The opening was a personal triumph for the American owner and brought to a sensational climax his long feud with the casinos at Monte Carlo and Cannes. For two years he had been denied a license, and when it was finally granted, with the specification that the government would get 85 per cent of the profits, Gould opened a month earlier than the regular season to get the jump on his rivals. The new casino, which faces the sea along the Promenade Des Anglais, has equipment for playing almost every conceivable game except dice. It has the most luxurious baccarat rooms in the world, with 40 tables enabling 600 persons to play at once. A "blind elevator" and darkened stairs lead to a mysteriously hidden hall where a favored few can play for unlimited stakes.

PRINCESS PALEY, RUSSIAN DUKE'S WIFE, DIES AT 63

Paris, November 3.—(AP)—Olga Princess Paley, whose morganatic marriage to the late Grand Duke Paul of Russia, the youngest uncle of the last czar, was a romance which shook imperial society in 1902, died here today at the age of 63.

The princess divorced her first husband, a Russian engineer.

2 DRUNK CHAUFFEURS ROB CLUB IN CHICAGO

Both Are Captured After Wild Chase Through Crowded Streets.

Chicago, November 3.—(AP)—The attempt of two intoxicated taxicab drivers to rob the Illinois Athletic Club, exclusive rendezvous of Chicago sportsmen, was frustrated after a hand-to-hand battle and spectacular automobile chase through deserted streets early today.

Armed with a shotgun, one of the drivers swayed unsteadily into the lobby of the club and demanded the contents of the cash drawer and safe of Thomas Kelly, 22-year-old desk clerk. The clerk handed over $84 from the till but declared his ignorance of the safe combination.

The bandit, bringing his gun close to Kelly's chest, declared he would fire at the count of three unless the combination was recollected. At the two count the desperate clerk seized the muzzle and grappled with his assailant.

Edward Jansen, an elevator operator, firing as he ran, came to the rescue but the bandit fled from the lobby to a waiting cab.

A passing motorist, George B. Johnson, of Antioch, Ill., picked up two policemen and pursued the speeding cab through several miles of Loop and West Side streets before forcing it to the curb.

One of the robbers was seriously wounded. The other, Edward Dufresne, said his companion was Thomas Gavin. Both men were found to be employees of a local taxicab company.

AMERICAN LEGION WILL PLACE FLAGS IN EVERY SCHOOL

Augusta, Ga., November 3.—(AP)—The state executive committee of the American Legion in session here today endorsed the inauguration of a campaign to place an American flag in every school yard in Georgia. Gordon Singleton, of the state department of education, was named chairman of a committee to sponsor the campaign, which was said to be part of the legion's "Americanization policy."

Charles Gradick, state commander, presided at the meeting, which was attended by Mrs. Maddox, president of the state auxiliary.

The executive committee was entertained at dinner at government hospital No. 62 and inspected the institution.

TWENTY COUNTIES IN HIGH SCHOOL MEET AT WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., November 3.—(Special.)—The Eleventh District High School conference, embracing the schools of 20 counties of southeast Georgia, will be held in Waycross Monday. Three of the principal speakers to be M. L. Dugan, state school superintendent; E. A. Pound, state high school inspector, and J. B. Stewart, high school supervisor, of the University of Georgia.

The sessions will be held at the Hotel Ware, opening at 10 o'clock Monday morning. The theme for the conference will be "The High School Principal and His Work." In attendance will be superintendents, principals and teachers of both county and city school systems.

BIGGEST COTTON CROP SINCE 1917 SEEN FOR BROOKS

Quitman, Ga., November 3.—(Special.)—The last ginning report issued for Brooks county shows a big gain and indicates the biggest crop since 1917, when the boll weevil hit the county. Up to October 18 there were 8,059 bales ginned from the crop of 1929 as compared with 3,812 bales ginned during the same period of 1928. It is estimated the crop will reach 8,500 bales.

Incidentally, farmers all over the county are organizing for a big cotton crop next year. They have learned that by using special seed and high fertilizing and cultivating methods they can raise a bale or more to the acre, given fair weather conditions.

COFFEE ROASTERS AND GROWERS MEET AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, November 3.—(AP)—Coffee roasting and coffee sampling, trade talk and international relations will be the practices and discussions before the annual meeting of the National Coffee Roasters' Association here during the coming week. The leaders in the coffee movement will seek to develop a constructive policy for the world trade attaining a mutual benefit between the American consumers of the beverages and the foreign growers of the plant.

In addition subjects of outstanding interest to be threshed out in executive committee meetings and reported to the convention floor for action include proposed and pending legislation affecting coffee trade, the Colorado resolution protesting diet propaganda, anti-coffee publicity and misbranding.

Growers' representatives from Brazil, Central and south American countries will be invited with American delegates to participate in a pre-convention golf tournament tomorrow while the executive committee meets with President R. W. McCreery, of Davenport, Iowa, to discuss policies and questions to come before the meeting.

ENDURANCE PLANE MISSES CONTACT, FORCED TO LAND

Tampa, Fla., November 3.—(AP)—The endurance plane Sealsweet, of Florida, landed at the municipal airport this afternoon at 5:50 o'clock, on its third attempt to set a new world's refueling record after it failed to take on oil for the night from its sister ship.

The plane made its first gasoline contact in the air this afternoon, but the rope on a canvas sack being lowered with the oil became entangled in the Sealsweet's tail and was broken, dropping the oil. At that time it was too dark to attempt another oil contact.

ASYLUM INMATE SLAYS 2 PATIENTS FOR PLAYING JOKE

Baltimore, November 3.—(AP)—Wrenching a board from the window of his room, Samuel McNeil, 39, a patient in the Mount Hope Retreat for the Insane, today clubbed to death two patients who, he believed, had made him the butt of a joke.

The victims of the attack, Howard Pemberton, 57, and Charles Schrauder, 70, died without regaining consciousness. All three were inmates on St. George's hall, a section of the asylum where patients classified as harmless are quartered.

COLLEGES NEED FUNDS TO GET BEST TEACHERS

Institutions Now Must Compete With Big Business, Says Hutchins.

Chicago, November 3.—(AP)—More money for faculty members to make education respectable and to enable universities to compete with business for the nation's best minds, was characterized Saturday by President Robert Maynard Hutchins, of the University of Chicago, as the greatest need of American higher education.

The money is needed, he said, to "strengthen three key point universities, to be pacemakers for all the others."

"In the last 25 years," he said in a newspaper interview, "the best minds of America have been drawn into business. Hence, American education faces a new problem in competition—competition with big business for the best men."

"If you sprayed a hundred million dollars over all the worthy colleges in the land," he said, "you might increase each professor's salary as much as a dollar and 34 cents. You might as well throw the money in the lake. But spend it on the key institutions and you will develop pacemakers that will revitalize American education."

Dr. Hutchins would have the three key universities located one in the east, one in the central west and one on the Pacific coast. He asserted that the amounts which universities are spending on building projects and on their faculties are "shockingly disproportionate."

"In the last 10 years," he went on, "the University of Chicago has received $53,000,000, and only seven millions went to a faculty composed of 772 men and women."

FERTILIZER RATE CASE HEARING IN ATLANTA

Important Freight Case To Be Held in City on December 6.

Mobile, Ala., November 3.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission hearing of the fertilizer freight rate case, scheduled to be held in Asheville, N. C., will be held in Atlanta, December 6, as a result of petitions submitted by the Mobile Chamber of Commerce and five similar organizations of this section, according to a statement made by the traffic department of the local chamber yesterday.

Suspension of the proposed freight rates on hardwood lumber, shipped from points in Arkansas and Louisiana west of Mississippi river to the Pacific coast over railways, was requested by the traffic department of the Mobile Chamber of Commerce.

The hearing, to be held in Atlanta before Commissioner Kornisberg, will decide whether, according to the "Long and short haul" act, the absorption is permissible. Mobile interests in this hearing will probably be represented by R. G. Cobb, traffic manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Several ports have permitted the carriers to absorb handling charges, thereby substantially reducing the cost of transportation and favoring certain ports.

The hearing, to be held in Atlanta before Commissioner Kornisberg, will decide whether, according to the "Long and short haul" act, the absorption is permissible. Mobile interests in this hearing will probably be represented by R. G. Cobb, traffic manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

GERMAN FLYER ENDS ROUND-WORLD TRIP

Baron Koenig Lands at New York on Last Lap of Voyage.

New York, November 3.—(United News.)—A dilapidated little monoplane staggered out of the fog here late today and settled to rest at Roosevelt field on Long Island. Baron Frederick Koenig, 23 years old, of Warthausen, Germany, had completed the aerial part of his journey around the world.

The first thing the baron did after landing was to reach into a little compartment of the plane and pull out his flying mate—a white cat, given to him by the crown prince of Siam, and two horned toads which he picked up on the painted desert of Texas.

Smiling, Baron Koenig set the white cat on the ground. Whereupon, out of the crowd, came an Alreide dog. A scramble ensued, but was ended when the young baron intervened on behalf of his pet.

Baron Koenig, who flew across Asia and America, will be awarded the Von Hindenburg prize for the most notable contribution to German aviation. He left Berlin a year ago this coming Wednesday on November 6, 1928—with the idea in mind of flying around the world and winning the Von Hindenburg award.

Persia, Calcutta, Rangoon, Siam, Sumatra and Hongkong saw the little Klemm monoplane pass eastward. At Yokohama he crated his plane and sailed for San Francisco.

After a cross-country flight, the baron landed at Albany, N. Y., and proceeded to Roosevelt field from there today.

His adventurous journey nearly met with disaster just as the plane came in sight of New York. Visibility was low and the baron was zooming along when the Bear Mountain bridge, spanning the Hudson, loomed in front of him. A flick of the stick and the plane scooted over the huge structure and was safe.

When Baron Koenig set out on his trip he had had but 17 hours of solo flying. When he reached Calcutta a message awaited informing him that he had been awarded the Von Hindenburg prize. He decided, however, to follow his original plan.

He will sail for Germany on November 6, he said today.

PAIR QUESTIONED IN BORGER PROBE

Borger, Texas, November 3.—(AP)—The Holmes murder mystery which persuaded Governor Moody to declare martial law in this turbulent oil town and which has lain dormant since that time, eclipsed all other considerations in Borger today. Officers questioned the first two men to be arrested and charged with the crime.

Sam Jones, former deputy constable and Jim Hodges, manager of a boiler works here, were charged with the crime after almost two months of investigation by state rangers, District Attorney Clem Calhoun and national guard officers.

Jones was one of the first men arrested when the troops came to Borger. He was held without bond on a liquor charge but at the expiration of martial law was allowed bond. Deputy Sheriff "Red" Burton returned him to Borger from New Mexico, Friday, on another liquor charge and upon arrival here lodged the murder complaint.

Hodges was arrested at his home here. Holmes, who was district attorney at the time of his assassination, once prosecuted Hodges on a murder charge. Officers investigating the case were very close-mouthed about the latest developments but indicated they felt they were nearing a solution which they expected would have wide ramifications.

State rangers early in the investigation said they had affidavits showing a conspiracy existed between some county and city officials and the criminal element. Later Governor Moody and his representatives here insisted that the old county and city administrations resign at the price of restoration of civil law. Jones was one of those forced out of office.

So confident was District Attorney Clem Calhoun that the arrested men were on the right track he predicted that a jury would punish Holmes' assassins before next year.

Beyond Hodges' denial of guilt or knowledge of the crime no word came from the prisoners.

THEFT OF PLANE CHARGED TO TRIO HELD IN GOTHAM

Astoria, L. I., November 3.—(United News.)—A pilot and two plane mechanics were arrested today, accused of stealing an eight-passenger plane from the City of Savannah—from an airport at Raleigh, N. C., yesterday.

The three men, who flew the plane to Astoria, are James E. Owen, assistant chief pilot of the Eastern Air Express, which operates a commercial air route from Astoria to Miami; Eckford Hodgson, mechanic for the Eastern Air Express, and John Warren, mechanic for another commercial flying company.

They were arrested after local police received a telegram from Sheriff Turner, of Raleigh. The message said the three men were wanted for larceny, assault and resisting arrest.

All three denied that the plane was stolen.

BANDITS FORCE WOMAN FROM BATH TO JEWEL CACHE

Chicago, November 3.—(United News.)—The spectacle of a woman taking a bath means but little to a trio of bandits police sought here last night.

All was peaceful in the home of J. G. Haber, sausage manufacturer, last night. Haber's 10-year-old daughter was reading. Haber was dozing at the radio, and his wife, Flossie, was taking a bath.

The bandits knocked on the door, the daughter let them in, and they immediately awakened Haber with a pistol. He told them he didn't know where the family jewels were hidden.

The bandits were about to leave in chagrin when they heard the sweet strains of Mrs. Haber's voice, emerging from the bathroom. So they opened the bathroom door, tossed Mrs. Haber a coat they found in the hall and forced her to hand over her jewel box. They escaped with jewelry valued at $8,100.

"People's Army" Defeats Nationalists On Chinese Border

Hankow, November 4.—(AP)—The Japanese Military Intelligence stated today that the kuominchun or "people's army" had scored a decisive victory over nationalist troops along the northwest border of the provinces of Hupeh and Honan, near Laohokow.

Hupei, Cheng Chow dispatches said 10,000 nationalist forces deserted and began ravaging the country side, while an equal number refused to fight.

Further reports told of wounded nationalists pouring into Cheng Chow from the west. The majority were suffering from sword and bayonet wounds, indicating the kuominchun were engaging in hand-to-hand combat to conserve ammunition. Officials of Laohokow were fleeing in confusion as the invaders neared the city.

The Japanese dispatch said, "The kuominchun crushed the nationalist forces, the victory resulting in great confusion. Laohokow officials are fleeing."

FOX SELLS STOCK IN FIRST NATIONAL

New York, November 3.—(AP)—William Fox, president of Fox Film Corporation, today announced completion of the sale of his company's stock holdings in First National Pictures Corporation to Warner Brothers for a sum in excess of $10,000,000.

By the terms of the transaction Fox Films relinquished title to more than 25,000 shares of First National stock, which is valued on its books at approximately $8,842,072.

Both Fox and Warner Brothers were in joint control of First National for the past ten years. Negotiations for the transaction were conducted through Albert M. Greenfield, Philadelphia and New York banker.

Mr. Fox said that Fox Film Corporation will apply such profits as accrued from the sale in liquidating all costs now being carried on his company's books for silent motion pictures.

"Talking pictures have made the silent films obsolete," he said. "Not only have they come as permanent feature of the world's entertainment, but their appeal and drawing power exceed by far the potential value of the old silent pictures."

DIRIGIBLE R-101 ENDS 14 HOURS OF NIGHT FLYING

Cardington, England, November 3.—(AP)—The dirigible R-101 was hauled to her mooring mast this morning after her first all-night flight, which lasted 14 hours.

During the final operations for hooking the dirigible to the mast the airship bumped her nose and tore the envelope, but the structural damage was slight. It was reported that during the flight three engines gave some trouble because of bends in the pipe of the cooling apparatus splitting. These were repaired with rubber hose.

The operation in each case took about an hour. Officials said the experience proved the vibration in the engines too violent for duralumin pipes. They will be replaced by larger copper pipes. The airship will be ready for flight Tuesday.

MATRICIDE PLEADS MERCY SLAYING

Englishman Shot Mother, Hopelessly Ill of Cancer, To End Suffering.

Draughton, France, November 3.—(AP)—The trial of Richard Corbett, 30, an Englishman who shot and killed his invalid mother at Hyeres on May 9, will open in this mountain town tomorrow. His defense will be that he exercised a humane right to kill.

The history of the crime is brief. Corbett's father was an English banker who settled on the Riviera nearly 40 years ago when he married a French girl. Ten years ago he died. Three years ago Mrs. Corbett began to suffer from what doctors later diagnosed as cancer. Her son acted as her nurse, scarcely ever leaving her alone in the small villa they occupied on the outskirts of the city.

In April Mrs. Corbett's suffering became so great that even the opiates constantly administered by the doctors did not relieve the pain. Day after day her son sat by the bedside watching her suffering and pleading with the doctors to do something to ease her. Early in May he was told there was no hope. On May 9 he cleaned a revolver, loaded it, walked into his mother's bedroom, kissed her, and killed her with one shot. He then shot himself.

Right to Kill.

Neighbors heard the shots and arrived to find Mrs. Corbett dead and her son unconscious. When he was able to speak at the hospital, his first question was, "My mother is dead?" The police officers told him that he had killed his mother. "Thank God for that," Corbett was reported to have said. "Now she suffers no longer. I don't care what you do to me."

Corbett will contend he had a right to kill, though the state will contend that no disease is incurable. But exactly what the defense intends doing remains a well-kept secret. Ordinarily, a sentimental plea would free a person charged in a similar case. Within the past four years in France seven persons have killed seven invalids in order to put them out of their sufferings and the state failed to convict. Now the public prosecutor is out to secure a conviction and create a precedent.

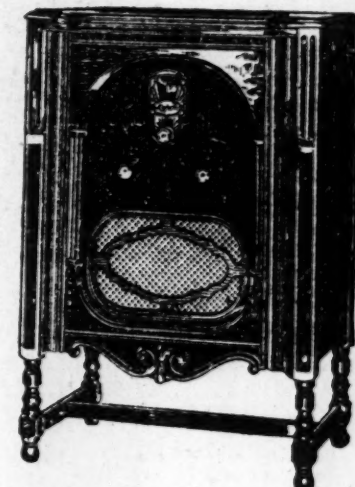

Corbett has refused the services of a lawyer and will plead his own case. He does not intend to ask for clemency because he insists he had a legal right as next of kin to destroy a relative if she were hopelessly ill.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 67

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan and Jane Clayton watched the verdure clad shore line receding in the ship's wake, and for once the ape-man left his native soil without one single pang of regret. No ship that sailed the seven seas could have borne him away from Africa quick enough. His eagerness to resume the search for his lost boy made the speed of the Kincaid seem that of a snail to the anxious father.

Yet the vessel made progress even when she appeared to be standing still, and presently the low hills of Jungle Island became distinctly visible upon the western horizon ahead. Jane and Tarzan stood upon the bridge watching the approaching island. The men were forward, also watching the land grow upward out of the ocean. The beasts had sought the shade of the galley, where they were curled up in sleep.

All was quiet and peaceful upon the ship, and upon the waters. Suddenly, without warning, the cabin roof shot up into the air, a cloud of dense smoke belched far above the Kincaid and there was a terrific explosion which shook the vessel from stem to stern. Instantly pandemonium broke loose upon the deck. The apes of Akut, terrified by the sound, ran snarling and growling in their panic.

Sheets leaped here and there screaming out his startled terror in hideous cries that sent the ice of fear straight to the hearts of the Kincaid's crew. Mugambi, too, was trembling. Only Tarzan of the Apes and his wife retained their composure. Scarce had the debris settled than the ape-man was among the beasts, quieting their fears, talking to them, stroking their shaggy bodies and assuring them that immediate danger was over.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

PETER IS VERY MISERABLE.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

What sport is there in giving pain? To hunt and frighten and to maim? —Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit was up in the Old Pasture, hiding in a hole in a bramble tangle, and Peter was very miserable. Peter was frightened and hurt. He had been shot at by a hunter with a terrible gun. Luckily for Peter, only two of the little shots from that gun had hit him, but those were bad enough. At first they had stung like the sting of a wasp. Then they began to ache.

So Peter was very miserable, indeed. He could hear the hunter tramping about and trying to frighten him out of the bramble tangles. The hunter had not seen just which bramble tangle Peter had darted into, so now he was tossing stones into the different bramble tangles in the hope of frightening Peter out. One of these big stones landed very near where Peter was hiding. But Peter was wise enough not to be frightened out.

By and by the hunter went away. Still Peter did not move. In the first place he didn't dare to, and in the second place he didn't feel like moving. Those little shots had gone clear through and hit the left shoulder bone. It wasn't a serious wound, but it was a painful one.

"Oh dear!" whimpered Peter. "Oh dear! Why didn't I stay at home in the dear Old Briar-patch. This thing never would have happened there. No, sir, this thing never would have happened there. But I didn't think one of those dreadful hunters would be up here in the Old Pasture. I hope he doesn't shoot any one else up here. I am lucky that he didn't kill me. My, what terrible things those guns are!"

Meanwhile the hunter had gone on his way. "I guess I missed that Rabbit altogether," thought the hunter. "It was a hard shot, but I guess I didn't hit him, but I guess I didn't. If I did hit him I couldn't have hurt him much from the way he ran. He must have gone into a hole."

Now that hunter had no regrets save the one regret that he had failed to kill Peter. Apparently it didn't occur to him that if he had hit Peter even ever so slightly, Peter would suffer. Hunters never seem to think of the suffering their cause. So the hunter went his way with no more thought for Peter Rabbit and finally left the Old Pasture.

Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun had gone to bed behind the Purple Hills before Peter ventured out of his hiding place. That leg that had been hit throbbed and burned. Peter found it easier to walk on three legs. He had no appetite. He felt simply miserable all over. He didn't venture outside of the bramble tangle. You see, he felt too miserable to hop about. Beside, he was afraid to. In the bramble tangle he felt safe, but if he went outside of it he knew that on three legs he would have hard work to get away from Reddy Fox or any other enemy which might happen along.

So Peter sat in the bramble tangle and wished and wished and wished that he were back home in the dear Old Briar-patch on the Green Meadows. Ordinarily, Peter doesn't mind being alone. But he did mind it now. He wished little Mrs. Peter was near. You know almost always when we feel very miserable, hurt or sick, we like to have some one near to tell our troubles to. Peter had no one to tell his troubles to.

Meanwhile over in the dear Old Briar-patch, little Mrs. Peter was worrying because Peter didn't return. She didn't know that Peter had gone up in the Old Pasture, but she had heard the bang of a terrible gun up there and she feared that Peter might have been up there. Then, too, her father, Old Jed Thumper, the gray old Rabbit, made his home up in the Old Pasture. She was worried about him also.

WILLIAMS TO QUIT HOUSE NOVEMBER 11 FOR CLAIMS COURT

Washington, November 3.—(AP)—Representative Thomas S. Williams, of Illinois, one of the house republican leaders in farm relief legislation, announced today that he expected to resign from the house on November 18 to assume his judgeship on the United States court of claims.

On that date the court will start a new session, Mr. Williams said. The nomination of the Illinois representative for that bench was confirmed last Friday by the senate.

The retirement of Representative Williams from the house will leave two vacancies in the Illinois delegation, the other having been caused by the death of Representative King, also a republican. Both seats, according to Representative Williams, will be filled in the regular state elections next year, the primary coming in April.

JUDGE M'ELROY TO RESUME PROBE OF STRIKE SLAYING

Gastonia, N. C., November 3.—(AP)—Judge Pender A. McElroy, of the North Carolina superior court, will begin an investigation here tomorrow, sitting as a committing magistrate, of the mob slaying on September 14 of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, National Textile Workers' Union member.

Forty witnesses, most of whom have been heard by a grand jury which refused to return indictments against anyone in connection with the slaying, have been summoned to appear before Judge McElroy.

The woman was the victim of a mob which attacked a group of union members on their way from Bessemer City to a union meeting here. Several shots were fired by the mob, one of them striking Mrs. Wiggins and killing her instantly.

A coroner's jury held nine men for grand jury action in connection with the shooting, but the grand jury failed to return true bills against them.

The task of conducting a new investigation was assumed by Judge McElroy at the request of Governor Gardner, made upon the grand jury's failure to return indictments.

What Causes Stomach Gas?

Recent medical discoveries show that most cases of gas bloating and indigestion are due to just one cause—Intestinal Stasis. Improper food and other faults of modern life are the cause of this insidious disease.

What Is Intestinal Stasis?

Intestinal stasis means the too slow movement of waste food matter. This matter, from which the body has taken all nourishment, is not promptly passed out of the bowels, but, due to intestinal weakness, it remains many hours or even days longer than it should. This waste matter then ferments, forms gas and poisons, and is the real cause of sour stomach, indigestion and gas bloating.

A person may have intestinal stasis and yet the bowels may move regular, but the movements are only partial, much old matter being left to form gas, hinder digestion and poison the system.

Action on BOTH Bowels

Laxatives or pills, seldom overcome intestinal stasis. Soda, magnesia, "gas tablets" or powders give only temporary relief. Intestinal stasis and the diseases of which it is the real cause, is helped best by continued REAL intestinal cleansing, and by increasing the natural activity of the bowel tract. Dr. Carl Weselche, in his private practice, first perfected the intestinal cleanser and prophylactic now known as Adlerika. It is a compound of the best saline intestinal evacuant with vegetable buckthorn and other ingredients which expel gas and have detergent action. Most medicines act on lower bowel only, but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel.

Remarkable Quick Benefit

Even the FIRST spoonful of Adlerika brings out a surprising amount of old poisonous matter which you would never believe was in your system and which caused your gas trouble. Then take Adlerika regularly, but only once each day, and in thirty days you will bless the day you first heard of this wonderful mixture. Many who for years have had indigestion, nervous dyspepsia, headache, sleeplessness, sour stomach and gas bloating, have quit taking soda, magnesia, pills and other make-shifts, and have gone to the bottom of their trouble by taking Adlerika.

Adlerika is sold by leading druggists everywhere, in tin-folled bottles.

Take this to any druggist and get a 15c discount on your first bottle of Adlerika.

To DRUGGISTS: We give you 15c cash for this. Not returned without customer's name and address PLAINLY written on box so we can write them. Adlerika Co., Dept. U., St. Paul, Minn.

$2,500

At first glance all the young ladies look alike; but you are asked to find the Twins that are clothed exactly alike. Now then: upon closer examination you will find a difference in their wearing apparel. Have they all earrings or necklaces? How about their coats and hats? Are they trimmed the same? Some have bands on the brim and crowns, others have not. Maybe the difference is just the buttonhole in the lapel of the coat. It takes real care and cleverness to point out the difference and find the two real Twins, because two and only two are identically the same.

90 points given for finding the twins ---and to win the first prize---only 10 more points are required. The final ten points may be easily earned by giving the correct or nearest correct titles to 20 cartoons. The last group of 4 are shown at the left of this page.

You will be given 90 points for finding the twins. Immediately on receipt of your correct answer to the twins we will send you 20 cartoons similar to those on this page and particulars for winning the big cash prizes and the magnificent $1,500.00 Buick sedan for promptness. No words to build---no dictionary to refer to. Everyone has an equal chance. To earn the final ten points you will find it simple, fascinating and amusing. Beneath each cartoon are a number of titles to the most popular movies and among them can always be found the correct one.

Qualifications

Any man, woman, boy or girl, resident of Georgia or adjoining states, who is not an employee of The Atlanta Constitution, or a member of an employee's family, may submit an answer.

The whole family may co-operate in this competition, but only one prize will be awarded a member of a family, or any one of a group outside of the family where two or more have been working together for a prize in any one prize group; but one person may win one prize in each of the three prize groups and also have a chance of winning the $1,500.00 automobile for promptness. This contest is conducted by The Atlanta Constitution, and prizes will be awarded after the close of the contest November 12, 1929. In event of ties in the final awarding prizes of equal value will be given.

10 CASH PRIZES IN EACH PRIZE GROUP

You can win first prize in list 1, first prize in list 2, first prize in list 3, or you can win one prize in each prize group, but not more than one prize in a group. This gives you a chance of winning all of the first cash prizes, or a total of $4,000.00 cash plus a magnificent $1,500.00 four-door Buick Sedan, fully equipped with spotlight, for promptness.

Y. W. C. A. Adult Guidance Council Meets Here November 8, 9, 10

The Adult Guidance Council for Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia meets in Atlanta, November 8, 9, and 10. The council being composed of Girl Reserve secretaries, Girl Reserve committee members and club advisers, and meets once a year to study new trends and methods of work with younger girls, and to plan new ways of applying these methods to Girl Reserve work. The Girl Reserve movement in the Y. W. C. A. covers the work with "teen" age girls, and this branch of Y. W. C. A. work is international in its scope, having Girl Reserve Clubs in 14 foreign countries and 180,000 Girl Reserves throughout America. It is interesting to note that Ilana, Princess of Rumania, is a member of the Girl Reserve ring, which is the highest honor a Girl Reserve can receive. In Atlanta there are 15 Girl Reserve clubs with a membership of 400. There are clubs in all of the high schools and many of the junior high schools. Miss Daisy Hoover is secretary of the Atlanta association. The first session of the council opens at 8 o'clock Friday evening with Mrs. T. Guy Woolford, president of the local association, presiding and welcoming the visitors to Atlanta and the Y. W. C. A. Miss Lucy Marvin Adams will address the council on "The Part Health Education Plays in Club Work." Later in the evening there will be Girl Reserve songs, a swim in the "Y" pool and a feast. Saturday's program includes morning, afternoon and evening meetings. Mrs. Van Wagner, of Auburn, Ala.; Miss Rebecca Reed, of Sumter, S. C.; and Dr. W. A. Smart, of Emory university, are the speakers on the morning program. The feature of the afternoon program will be an installation ceremony put on by the Fulton High Girl Reserve Club. This will be followed by a "Discussion for Advisers" led by Miss Lucille Litaizer, National Girl Reserve secretary. Miss Litaizer will have charge of the Saturday evening meeting and the council will close with a short business session Sunday morning at 9:30.

Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock the council will be entertained at tea at the home of Mrs. Percy Baker on West Andrews drive, and those assisting will be Mesdames Fred Patterson, vice president of the local board of directors, and the Girl Reserve committee, including Calvin Prescott, chairman; Mrs. Snythe Gambrell; Julian Robinson; Percy Baker, A. B. Bryant, John Fitts, R. E. Day, George Williams, James Speas and R. B. Eleazer, and Miss Caroline Nicolson.

Housebroken

By PAUL HERVEY FOX

INSTALLMENT I.
GRANDSTAND PLAY.

It was perhaps the greatest day of his life, though that life was very much ahead of him. In a vague way Tom Davies was aware of this. Not to many men is it given to be a hero more than once.

It is true that the crowd that roared and cheered him was not so large as crowds go, for his was a small college. But then enthusiasm has nothing to do with size or numbers.

He had played his last game of football. Next season he would be an alumnus, there would be another captain, another halfback, another crowd to cheer itself hoarse.

The big eastern team had condescended to wind up its season with the small college game. Tom had realized he would never have another chance to plough his way down a field, hugging the ball as he charged through the line. He had felt and then determined.

That day he resolved that there was nothing that could or would stop him. To the last ounce of his energy, to the final brilliant, untiring strategy, he would play as he had never played before.

The blood tingled in his ruddy face, and his light eyes took on the color of steel. He was invincible, with youth, strength, courage to drive the purpose that seemed so immensely worth while.

When someone feels like this, other people feel it, too. The big eastern team was baffled, startled and finally helpless.

Tom found the weak spot in the line, broke through again, just as easily. They lined up for the kick-off. He tackled the runner. The ball was fumbled. Tom fell on it, and in a series of fierce charges pushed it across the goal once more.

He had heard dimly the shouts from the grandstand, the massed cheering, now the cheer leaders had gone wild. Everyone screamed and shouted hoarsely. Hats were torn up, spectators pitched out of their seats, and his name shouted in a thousand voices. A maniacal fury seemed to drive him. He would not let anyone else do anything. He was the whole team. He could outlast the world and all the people in it. There was nothing he could not do. A new and complete strength coursed in him, a greater speed. When the final whistle blew the easterners had made nothing and he had rolled up the largest score of the season.

It was over and done with! The crowd was carrying him to the gym. He saw the faces, grinning at him, shouting familiar and affectionate names. He saw Square Head Larsen, who had flunked him in mathematics, waving to him frantically. He saw girls staring at him. The roar of the crowd, its homage and worship were swayed. He tasted something of greatness and glory.

In the gym itself, in the halls outside the dressing rooms, were the chosen few, the big men of the little college. They were there because to be there was an honor. They were there to serve him, look at him with admiring grins, bask in his reflected light.

He frowned and everyone frowned. He made a poor criticism and they roared. No one referred to his triumph; it was like talking about an earthquake or an avalanche. It was impossible to approach the topic with anything so simple as language.

Tom felt solemn as he thought of his own prowess. The dignity of power was in his grave glance. He felt alone as kings feel lonely.

There was a house party in his fraternity house for the week-end. Many of the fraternities were holding them. There were all sorts of girls floating about, girls looking up at buildings and saying in high, charming, silly voices: "Don't you just adore it?" about nothing and everything. There were girls going past in cars with undergraduates in fur coats showing how fast they could go around corners.

As Tom plodded along now and then he heard someone in a group say, "O, there he is!" Then he would feel people looking at him. He would see a familiar face, smile, wave his hand, and trudge on. It was pleasant to be alone now, with the taste of his triumph still fresh.

In the big hall of the fraternity house there was a crowd that nevertheless gave away before him. He said some of the old grads, talking and laughing together, Mrs. Martin, one of the chaperons, Tubby Fisher, Joe Galbraith, a dozen others. And still more girls. The agitated house steward was attempting to serve tea in the big room at the right, and a confusion of cheerful, cordial voices filled the air with a faint din.

Tom heard the greetings that rose to him, waved again, and dashed up the stairs. On the third floor he pushed open a door and stepped inside.

A young man with a good looking head, close cropped hair, and a smile that began in his eyes looked up, yawned, and threw an illustrated Parisian magazine across the room.

"What the devil do you mean by butting in here without knocking?" he asked, and a certain elation grew in his voice. "What did you think of it?"

"The game was all right. You were rotten."

"Rotten?" Tom's bulk, his big shoulders and long arms suggested the ease of power. Bruce, with his lean figure, the sharp contours of his head, was like something he could snap up and break in one sweep of arms. In that moment Tom felt he would have liked to try to snap Bruce, mean, I was rotten," he asked again.

"I mean you were terrible. Making a grandstand play, acting like a hero in a bum show. Prancing up and down the field, showing off for the girls like a movie actor!"

A dozen retorts trembled on Tom's lips. Again he had a strong desire to pick Bruce up by his long legs and dangle him head first out of the window, or else roll on the floor with him until he howled for mercy.

But caution and a good memory held him in check. Bruce had a way of always getting back in good season. He could, when he wanted, start a whole crowd laughing at someone he chose to make ridiculous. Tom recalled the morning when he awakened to find all his trousers stolen, and the time when his uncle, from whom he expected money, had called. The pictures in his room that day had been changed. Prizefighters, race horses and many scantly clad ladies had met his uncle's startled eyes. That had taken a lot of explaining!

Besides, it was characteristic of Bruce Stevens to attack him. Tom was immensely fond of him, and had never had a polite word from him yet. "O, shut up," he growled. "You're only a miserable weakling."

Bruce was on his feet. "Tom, I'm about to do you a favor, much against my will."

"I'd like to hear it, and find out if it is a favor."

"The most beautiful girl in the world is at present downstairs pining for me."

"Who is she?"

"I don't know. Joe Galbraith brought her along for me. I haven't seen her yet. Worse still, the poor little thing hasn't seen me."

"What do you want me to do?"

"I am going to give her to you."

"Give her to me? What are you talking about?"

"Didn't you say that friend of your sister's who had the flu and couldn't come?" Bruce asked.

"Yes."

"Well, you can have this girl instead."

"Why don't you want her?" Tom demanded suspiciously.

Bruce raised one eyebrow. "Some fool on the committee asked Mrs. Martin to be a chaperon. Last time she was here I told her she was the only woman I had ever loved. If she sees me with another girl this time she's just crazy enough to put her husband wise. Brother Martin is from the west where 'men shoot on sight and ask questions afterwards. I'm doing a quiet little sneak to town this week-end."

Tom grinned. It sounded like a familiar scrape of Bruce Stevens'. That gray young man was always in hot water. It was rumored around the campus that no girl could successfully resist him. Hadn't a well-known actress, while on tour, called him up at the chapter house at midnight every evening for two months? The calls had come in from all sorts of places, and every evening the receiver had squeaked with the well-known actress' voice, full of frenzy and despair. On the other end of the wire Bruce, bland and persuasive, would tell her whatever comforting lie came to his head.

"Will you do this?" Bruce demanded. "Mind you, I'm doing you a favor. Just take this girl off my hands."

"She's probably sixty-five."

"Not if she's a friend of Joe Galbraith's."

"Well, all right. One girl at a house party is the same as another."

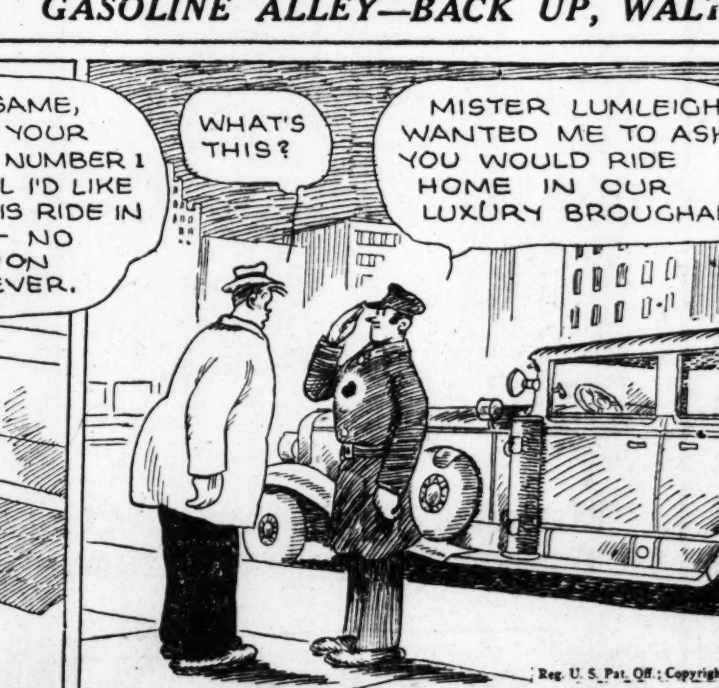

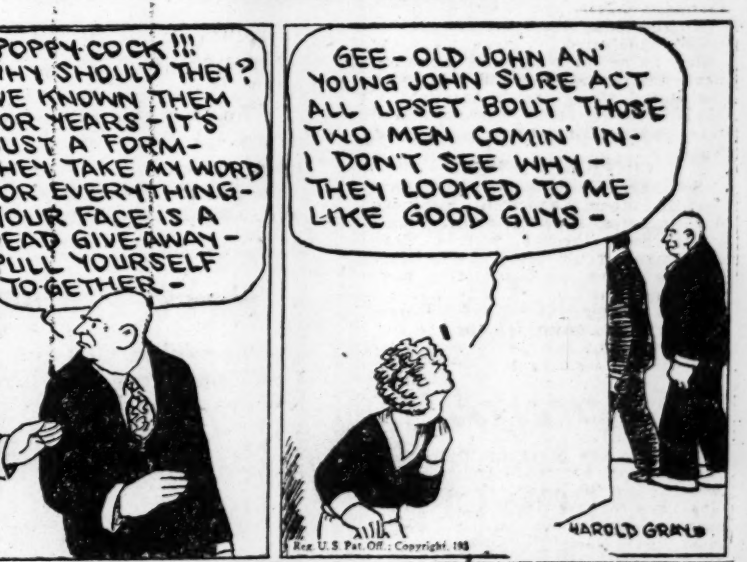

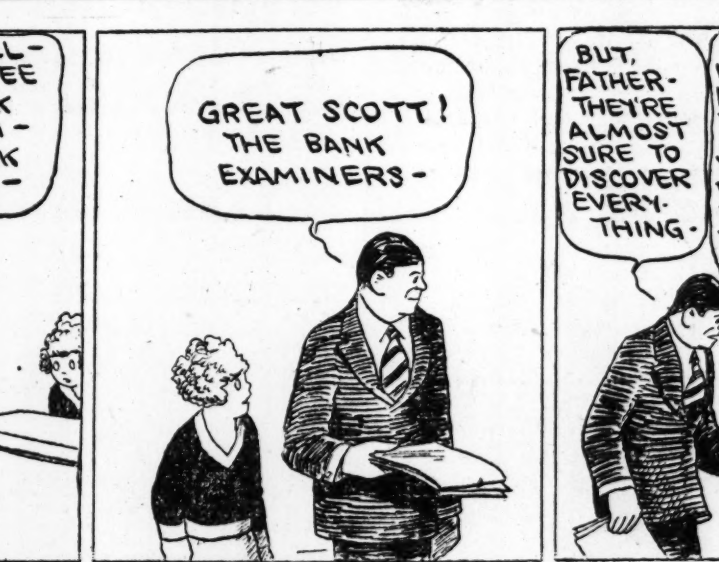

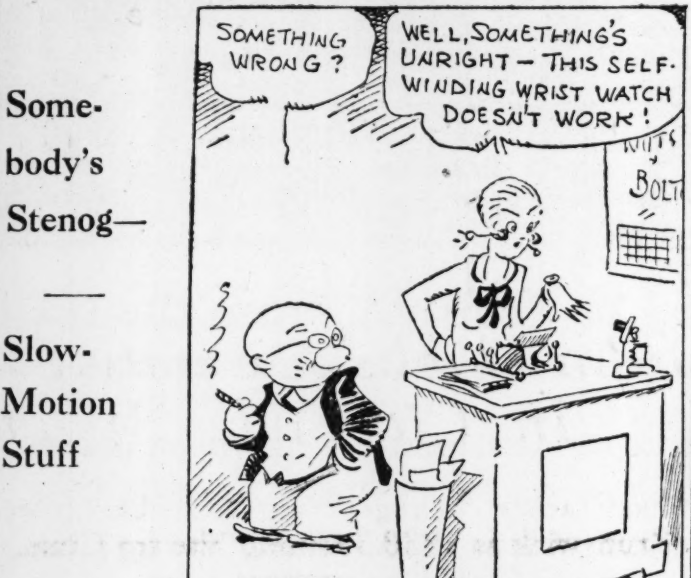

"Fine!" Bruce rose. "I will now beat it down the back stairs like the guilty duke. See you Monday, boy! I expect to have some more dope on China by then!"

Bruce opened the door, listened, and slipped down the corridor.

Commodores, Tennessee, Kentucky, Tulane Lead in Dixie Race

VANDY, KENTUCKY HAVE HARD TESTS

FOUR ELEVEN AHEAD IN RACE FOR '29 HONORS

Vandy, Kentucky Join
Tennessee, Tulane at Top of Pile.

By Ed Danforth.

Into that serene group around the Southern conference throne—prominent among which were Tennessee, Tulane and Clemson—two noisy, tough eggs crashed Saturday.

Vanderbilt and Kentucky butted right on in. The Commodores and the Wildcats, hitherto taken rather calmly as prospective champions, slipped through a side door and pushed up to the head of the line. Vanderbilt displayed great possibilities in beating the powerful Crimson Tide, 13 to 0, on a day when Coach Wallace Wade said his team played its very best football game. And Kentucky, with a regular back or two on the injured list, defeated Clemson, hitherto undefeated, by the shocking score of 44 to 6, or thereabouts.

Clemson was crowded out of the championship picture just when critics around here were just about ready to have the diadem ordered to fit their noggin. "Shipwreck" Kelly, who really must be as good a halfback as there is in the south, ran wild. So did half a dozen substitutes. The fact that Kentucky used so many substitutes without cramping its style makes one suspect the Wildcats have more reserve strength than any of the others.

L. S. U. BEATEN.

Louisiana State university, tipped as a dark horse carrying a threat for Tulane Thanksgiving Day, lost a lot of fearfulness by yielding 32 to 0 to Arkansas, a new conference opponent.

One might say then that the conference race has narrowed to Tennessee, Tulane, Vanderbilt and Kentucky. And Tennessee having yet to play both Vanderbilt and Kentucky looks less like a sure shot than ever before. Vanderbilt still must play Georgia Tech and Tennessee and is some distance from the coronation. And likewise Kentucky has Alabama and Tennessee ahead and must be very, very good on two more fields to escape defeat.

Tulane looks like a certain shot to finish undefeated. Tulane's stellar twins, Auburn and Sewanee, next and probably could win with the second string and in the light of L. S. U.'s defeat by Arkansas need fear nothing Thanksgiving in the final.

CRITICAL JUDGES.

So critical are judges these days that if either Vanderbilt, Kentucky or Tennessee, none of which Tulane meets, come through with a clean slate many would favor one of these for the crown on basis of a more imposing schedule. Tulane has defeated Georgia Tech and Georgia among the so-called leaders and victories over other teams are no unusual nor remarkable feat this season.

Tennessee continued its fine playing unhampered by Auburn. The score was 27 to 0.

V. P. I. was given the freedom of the gridiron by Washington & Lee and ran up 36 points. North Carolina, one of the two best football teams in the south in the defeated class, beat North Carolina State, 32 to 0.

OLE MISS TIED.

Sewanee tied Ole Miss and Maryland tied Virginia in the other conference games. Florida, the other good but defeated conference team, played well against Harvard but lost, 14 to 0.

Duke took another one on the chin, this time from Boston U. V. M. I., a pretty good football team of eleven men and no reserves trimmed Davidson, 12 to 6.

And Georgia Tech, tackling poorly but otherwise making things fairly interesting, took a jolting from the great Notre Dame eleven, 26 to 6.

Legion Is Ready For First Bout

Initiating what is slated to be a gigantic campaign for the next few months, the American Legion will stage its first boxing show at the auditorium Friday night.

The main attraction should prove as highly interesting as any bout which has been put on in Atlanta. Duke Trammel, who hails from Fort Worth, Texas, brings a fine record into the ring with him, and, facing Ted Goodrich, promises the Atlanta favorite one of the stiffest bouts of his career.

The Texan, with a pair of powerful hands, has sent most of his opponents to the canvas, and has never yet gone down himself.

Last week, battling Clyde Hull, another Texan well-known here, he was out in front all the way and won a easy decision. And Hull will be remembered as the lad who pushed Goodrich so hard here in two bouts some time ago.

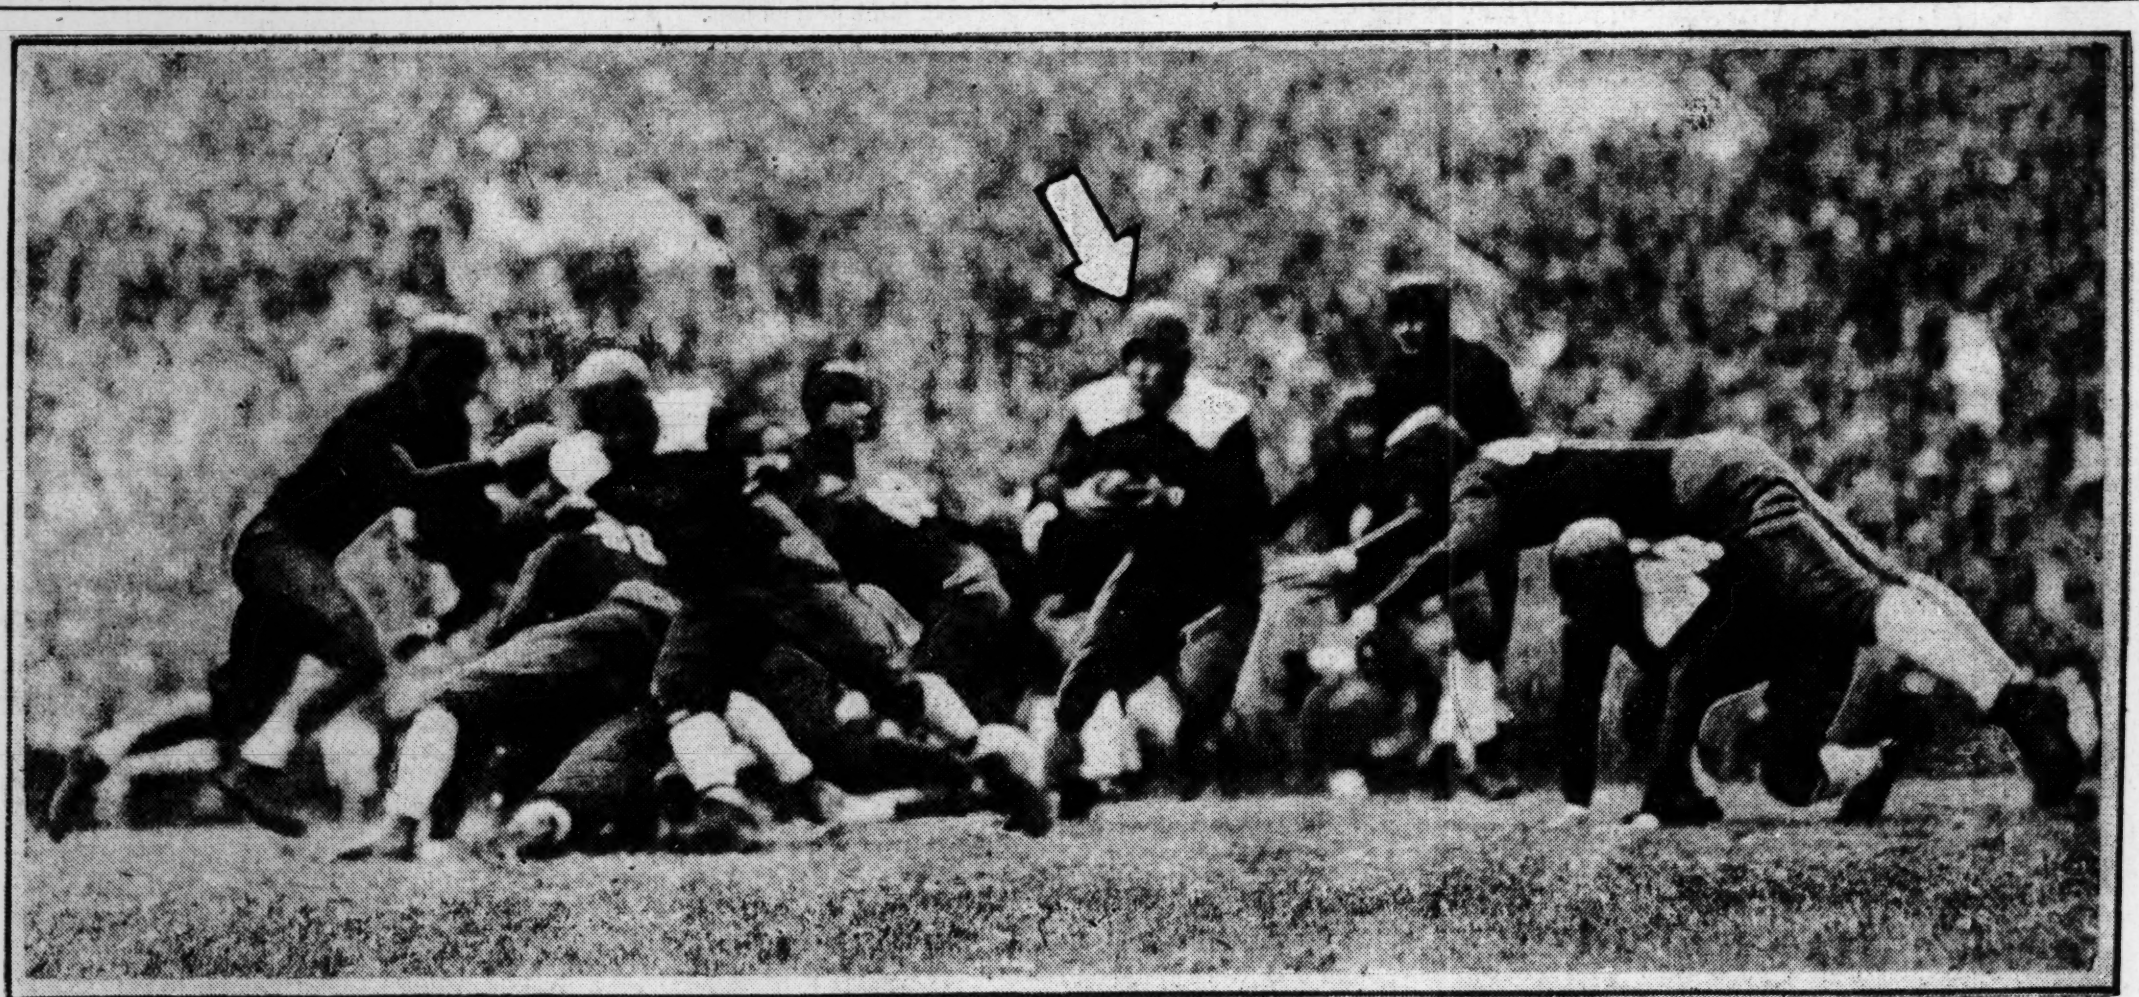

The semi-final bout also sends a pair of good and well-matched waterweights into the ring. The two "Spikes," Webb of Miami and Kelly of Chicago, each boast of a reputation for being able to both give and take, and should put on a bitter battle.

The other matches have not yet been made, but the Legion is carrying the preliminary fight carefully, promises a well-rounded program.

Rich Prize.

Paris, November 3.—(AP)—Arthur Veil Picard's Le Bouif, by Roskilde, out of Brigue the Second, won the 100,000 francs Prix d'Automne over a 3,800 meters course today. The winner paid 27 to 10 in the betting.

Gangway for Elder! Here's How Irish Clear Way for Backs

In this illustration, another one taken by The Constitution staff photographers, Rogers and Holloway, at the Notre Dame-Tech game Saturday, Elder is shown coming through the line for a gain of 11 yards. Note the perfect job done by the Notre Dame line in blocking out the Tech men. Mullins is running interference ahead of Elder, the hole being clean enough to permit him to go on. Sam Fincher, who played a great game in the line for Tech, is shown blocked in the air at the right.

By Ed Danforth.

No games on the November calendar of the Southern conference present such attractive prospects from a spectacular standpoint than the next two engagements for Georgia Tech. Your correspondent saw Vanderbilt defeat Alabama Saturday in Nashville, 13 to 0, in a contest that bared in the victors great resourcefulness and in the vanquished great straight-away power.

Bring either of these teams into conflict with the Yellow Jackets and a tense, fast-moving and possibly free-scoring game is bound to result.

Furthermore, it is not unlikely that the Engineers can win both these games and greatly improve their conference standing. Neither is it unlikely that both Vanderbilt and Alabama will defeat Tech. The two teams that played Saturday in Dudley stadium showed plenty of strength and not a few weaknesses.

Who can forecast the results of Tech's next two games will be the fair-haired boy of a large family of crystal gazers.

INSPIRED GAME.

Vanderbilt undoubtedly played an inspired game such as Tech displayed against Florida in October.

The Commodores apparently have no great plunging power, but they made their few weapons—a punter, a passer and a fast halfback—good for two touchdowns. On the superhuman individual efforts of their secondary defense, rather than any great strength in the rush line, they held Alabama on the goal line four times.

No better tackle play has been observed this season than big Dick Abernathy and Moorehead, the sophomore, gave Dan McGugin. Abernathy, especially, played the sort of game that Vance Maree and Mack Tharpe used to produce.

Wilson and Brown proved valiant, aggressive guards on offense, but lacked the ruggedness and heft to wrestle with the Alabama giants on defense. Dan Sharpe was adequate at center. Bill Swartz, who played a disappointing game at fullback last year, has become one of the best ends in the conference. He is as big as a skinned mule and plenty fast. He punts exceptionally well. He gets them off fast and few of his boots will be blocked. Now and then he goes back to a short punt formation and bucks the line with power.

Vandy's kicks are well covered by Scheffer, the right end, Abernathy and Wilson. The boys certainly get down there in a hurry and tackle viciously.

Amos Leonard is an extremely fast halfback who follows interference instinctively well and in other games has been effective on off tackle plays and quick opening plunges. His line could not open up for him against Alabama and he had to content himself with skipping around the ends, which he does with ease and grace.

Benny Parker is a smart quarterback and just a fair passer. A cold critic would call the pass he over-armed to McGaughey for the touchdown a poorly thrown pass that should have been batted down by any secondary defense in America. Thomas and McGaughey are great blockers. Vanderbilt has no plunging power save when Swartz comes back. All four backs are poisonous tacklers in the secondary.

COMPARISON.

Georgia Tech's team this year fits into this Vanderbilt team or into what they showed against Alabama in an odd manner. Tech can punt as well or better than Vanderbilt and Tech can pass better. Tech's plunging power is negligible. Tech has two experienced half backs where Vanderbilt has just one fast stepper. That seems to give Tech an offensive edge a mile and a furlong wide.

But, gentlemen, Tech has no tackles and no guards

TUBBY'S TEAM BEATS FEDERALS

"Home-Cooked Eleven" Scores Twice To Win in Mud.

Walton's home-cooked university football team won a 14-to-6 victory over the Commodore Feds yesterday afternoon at the federal prison.

The game dedicated the new football field at the prison. The game was called in the fourth when rain fell in such quantities that the field was flooded.

Tubby Walton (in person and not a vitaphone act), played in the football game. The referee ruled that there was unnecessary tongue on the field and called the game because of the danger to the other players. The referee declared that if Tubby Walton should happen to fall on a player the player would be drowned before help could arrive.

Tubby was not slow. He was just anchored.

Walton's team had a player named Jesse James. The Federals protested him when he took a short pass and went 55 yards for a touchdown, saying he should be on their team with that name. Rogers and Cook scored the second touchdown.

The Federals scored on a beautiful pass, Fink to Diagnelli. They were two of the federal stars. Others were Hogan and Schmidt, Patrick, Kinsey, Holcomb and Patterson starred for the Home-cooked university eleven.

Both centers passed well in the mud. The Federals want games and they may be arranged by calling Bishop at Main 0700.

Gene McEver Leads Scorers

Gene McEver, of Tennessee, scored two touchdowns and crossed the line for an extra point in the game with Alabama Poly yesterday, putting him further ahead of Southern conference scorers.

Tulane's Bill Banker added two touchdowns in the Georgia game Friday to take second place. McMillan, of subdued Clemson, scored his team's single "gift" touchdown against Kentucky yesterday to take third place. Shipwreck Kelly's two touchdowns against Clemson gave him only 45 points for a possible fourth place.

The standing:

McEver, Tennessee, halfback; games, 6; touchdowns, 15; point after touchdowns, 1; total points, 91.

Banker, Tulane, halfback; games, 5; touchdowns, 7; points after touchdowns, 10; total points, 52.

McMillan, Clemson, halfback; games, 6; touchdowns, 8; points after touchdowns, 0; total points, 48.

Famous Turfman Dies in Gotham

New York, November 3.—(AP)—John E. Madden, nationally known Kentucky horse breeder and breeder of six Kentucky derby winners, died at the Pennsylvania hotel today after an illness of several days.

Mr. Madden, who was 73 years old, had been confined to his suite at the hotel for nearly two months, suffering from heart disease. A week ago his condition was reported much improved, but a relapse caused his death today.

The death of Madden was the third among the great leaders of the turf within the past month. James Rowe and Samuel C. Hildreth, widely known turfmen, died within that period.

John Dobbs Expected In City This Week

New Cracker Manager Will Probably Select Brunswick as 1930 Training Site for Club.

By Ralph McGill.

Jonathan Gordon Dobbs, who has slapped his hands in behalf of quite a few baseball owners in his time, will arrive in Atlanta this week in his capacity as manager of the Atlanta Crackers.

Among the first things to be decided will be the training site for the 1930 Cracker club. Brunswick had already been decided on by R. J. Spiller, former owner and now one of the eleven new owners of the Crackers.

Dobbs is expected to ratify the choice this week. The Brunswick site offers many advantages which Atlanta lacks. The chief benefit to be derived is better weather conditions and the centralization of interests.

Dobbs has never trained away from the parks where he has won pennants. Training at home when he was for Memphis and at Birmingham the two years he won flags for the Baron owners. Nevertheless he is expected to do so in favor of Brunswick as a conditioning camp for his Crackers next spring.

POPULAR SALE.

Sale of the Atlanta club to the 11 Atlanta business men met with the enthusiastic indorsement of the entire city. It aroused the interest of many people who have never been baseball fans. Indications are that Atlanta is in for the greatest baseball season in its history.

The new owners: L. W. (Chip) Roberts, R. W. Woodruff, H. Y. McCord, Sr., Walter Candler, L. F. Montgomery, Charles Black, Robert T. Jones, Scott Hudson, Harold J. Hirsch, Arthur Hurdett and R. J. Spiller each own one-eleventh of the stock. Common stock will be offered for sale to the public within a few weeks. R. J. Spiller was elected president by the new board of directors and will represent them in the direction of the business affairs of the club.

Better baseball for Atlanta will be offered by the new owners. They have pledged Dobbs their support. He has a three-year contract and every effort will be made to give him all the support needed.

DOUBLE PURPOSE.

The new owners have a two-fold purpose in buying the club. Their primary purpose was to give Atlanta a better baseball team. They did not go into it merely as a business deal, but to give the city a better baseball team. They know that baseball is a paying proposition here and that the more money they spend the more valuable will become their investment.

Atlanta's new baseball executives were receiving the congratulations of their friends all day yesterday after publication of the surprise deal was made in the Sunday morning newspapers. They have determined that they will be actively interested in the baseball club. The board will be one in fact and not a mere figurehead. Every decision will be made by the board.

Bert Niehoff, who was recently released as a coach by the New York Giants, is in Atlanta. He has been here for several days and is noncommittal on his future. He has been mentioned as Dobbs' successor at Birmingham, but no definite word has come out of the Birmingham city regarding their managerial choice for next season.

IDEAL SUCCESSOR.

Niehoff is one of the smartest baseball men in the game and would be an ideal successor to Dobbs.

Meanwhile Atlanta's new owners plan to keep their baseball business quiet until after the football season. At that time they will begin work. They have already decided that they will not oppose the election of Joe Engel, new Chattanooga owner, to the board of directors of the Southern league. Engel was one of those who participated in the purchase of the Atlanta club last spring, which purchase was later repudiated. He and Clark Griffith, president of the Washington baseball club, were the purchasers.

TECH BEGINS VANDY WORK

Two Cripples of Irish Battle To Recover by Saturday.

By Herb Clark.

Whole in body, but sore-rired in spirit, Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets, rudely handled by the Irish Express, will bend their backs to the task of preparing for their invasion of the camp of Vanderbilt's Commodores this afternoon.

Battered and sledged by the shillalah of the fighting Ramblers Saturday, the Jackets, even those carried off the field to a hand-clapped mourn, are expected to recover sufficiently to be able to see service against the Commodore sea wall which succeeded, where King Canute failed, in stretching forth a powerful hand and causing the tide—the Crimson Tide—to reverse its direction.

Jim Brooke, horse bench-warmer after a thorough clipping had left his leg in a sad state, received much attention in the training quarters after the game. Mike Chambers, the ever handy first aid artist, reported success and prophesied an early return for Brooke.

Fred Holt, whose state of health also gave the populace something to worry over Saturday night and Sunday, will also be back in harness when the Jackets leave for Nashville.

Aside from these two major casualties, the Tech squad is in no worse shape than might have been expected after any football game. The usual number of bruises, sore spots, and slight sprains are in evidence. Coach Bill Alexander, The Man, pleased with the showing of his squad, also expressed satisfaction with their physical condition.

The Jackets start work this afternoon. The coming week will be another of blind practice. The Man and Uncle Dan McGugin, like Alex and Rockne, had a non-scoring agreement, and will be forced to depend on the knowledge of each other's tactics in the sessions ahead.

VANDY'S LINE.

Tales of the prowess of the Vandy line, which refused the power of Tony Holt, the versatility of Monk Campbell, and the drive of Billy Hicks, have reached the Flats. Just so has word of the expertness of Amos Leonard, the red-headed sophomore demon, the rifle passes—usually completed—of Benny Parker, and the line-cracking thrust of Bill Swartz.

No weakening team, this Commodore squad. And they have yet to be defeated by a southern foe, within or without the conference. True, Minnesota holds a 15-6 decision over the Jackets, but Maryland hardly figures to do anything like as well.

And Tech, rated a "November team" when the boys made the rounds in September, is due, under that estimation, to come into its own ere long. Playing Saturday against the Irish Express, they showed a definite improvement. A like upward step this week, and the Jackets should go places.

Greenies Given Riotous Welcome

New Orleans, November 3.—(AP)—Their train escorted by airplanes and greeted with blasts of train and steam-whistles, the victorious Green Wave of Tulane returned today. More than 20,000 cheering enthusiasts welcomed the team arriving from Georgia after its 21-to-15 grid victory over the University of Georgia Bulldogs.

Five bands aided the demonstration which continued at high pitch until a parade was formed and the team brought by automobile to the city hall, where the players were congratulated by Acting Mayor William T. Hall, who urged the undefeated Wave to win the remaining three games and become southern champions.

Failure to keep their agreement led R. J. Spiller to announce that he would oppose Engel's election to the board.

The Southern league owners will meet next Monday at Memphis in the annual winter meeting.

TULANE, VOLS ARE RETIRED TO REST CAMPS

L. S. U. Will Find Duke
Hard Foe; Georgia
Meets N. Y. U.

By Ralph McGill.

In this business of the survival of the fittest there are usually enough fits to go around. Unless, of course, one has a smart schedule maker.

This week happens to include a fit for three of the five undefeated and a soft spot for other two. When the master minds figured out Tennessee's schedule they gave them Auburn and Carson-Newman before the Vanderbilt game. Tulane, once by the Georgia game, has Auburn and Sewanee to lean on for a spell of rest.

For the others, however, the way is the one which the transgressor treads—hard. Very hard.

TOUGH FOR VANDY.

Vanderbilt, who outsmarted and outplayed Alabama last week to win 13 to 0 and remain undefeated, must meet Georgia Tech Saturday at Nashville with the Tennessee game scheduled for the following week.

This happens to be November and the Yellow Jackets are coming along, gaining in co-ordination, experience and confidence. They played a very fine football game against Notre Dame last Saturday. Vanderbilt is far from being a favorite to win on Saturday. It happens that Tech is not beaten until the final whistle blows.

Down at Tulane a week ago one of the newspaper men asked Mr. Bill Alexander, The Man at the Flats, what he thought about the game. "I don't know," he said. "We'll just keep trying until the game is over." They did, scoring two touchdowns in the last eight minutes of play to almost tie the football game.

The Commodores and your Uncle Dan McGugin have quite a job of work ahead of them. They know it, too.

KENTUCKY RUNS WILD.

Conference football fans are still gasping at the accomplishments of the Kentucky eleven last Saturday at Lexington. The game was a contest, the Clemson-Kentucky game developed into a track meet for the Kentucky backs.

The Wildcats vastly entered the game crippled. It played no more than a quarter and a half and gave way to the scrubs.

Kentucky scored 44 points to 6 for Clemson. A team that was undefeated until that game. Cody's eleven last shown lots of power in winning their earlier games and their collapse before the Kentucky charge was totally unexpected.

Kentucky must meet Alabama this week, the game being scheduled for the bowl at Montgomery. Alabama, who was a state contender, is the one which was stopped by Tennessee's played its best football of the year against Vanderbilt and lost, 13 to 0.

The Tide seems to be coming along. They will make the afternoon very rough for Kentucky. The Wildcats backs, headed by Shipwreck Kelly, the sailor-stoker, will find the Alabama line much tougher than the one which was stopped by Tennessee's.

The score against Alabama will not be half as much as it was against Clemson. That much is assured. In fact, it happens to be like long shots, the Crimson Tide is just that. They are going to beat someone this fall.

TIGERS MEET DUKE.

Russ Cohen's S. U. eleven has been defeated but not by a conference eleven. The Arkansas Razorbacks trounced them severely Saturday but the defeat didn't count in the conference standing.

L. S. U. must meet Duke at Durham, N. C. Duke has been taking them on the chin with regularity this fall, meeting tough foes from north of the line. The Pitt Panther beat them as did the Navy. Boston College trounced them, they should win from the Louisiana Tiger. S. U. can't take that many beatings and show the fight Duke has and not bounce up in some team's face one of these fine days. Maybe Saturday.

Those are the various paths the undefeated must tread. There are other important games. Harry Mehre and Frank Thomas will escort the Georgia Bulldogs up for their inter-sectional contest with the New York University Violets. The Bulldogs will be in better shape for the game. Downes being expected back in the lineup at quarter. The Bulldogs are due to come back in another upset game. They will be on the short end of the odds. They will be rather worn when the day is done if they aren't actually beaten.

Maryland meets Yale and Albion both Saturday at New Haven. The Yale eleven has been going like a runaway train since losing to Georgia. Georgia stopped Booth and all the other backs, but Maryland hardly figures to do anything like as well.

Mississippi will meet Purdue with the latter team the top-heavy favorite. Mississippi's Aggies play Michigan State.

North Carolina and South Carolina will meet Saturday at Columbia in a fight which has been going on long enough to be mellowed with tradition. North Carolina should win.

North Carolina State is likely to lose to Davidson, a non-conference State.

V. P. I. and Virginia meet in another of those sectional contests with the latter favored to win.

V. M. I. meets Old Dominion at Norfolk and unless the Tiger from South Carolina recovers from the shock of the Kentucky defeat, and comes back strong he will lose again.

Sewanee meets Southwestern at Memphis and should win.

Kentucky Alumni To Gather Today

Atlanta alumni of the University of Kentucky will meet at a luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 12 o'clock today.

Following the unexpected overwhelming victory of the Wildcats over Clemson's Tigers at Lexington Saturday, the club is expected to consider plans for a trip to Montgomery for the Alabama-Kentucky game next Saturday.

the season's schedule.

"A population of 500,000 by 1932" is Atlanta's slogan. Let's all pull together for a Greater Atlanta.

Case Tractor Shows Trend To Small, Powerful Machines

The announcement of the Case Model C tractor coincident with the release of the Nebraska test on it gives ground for the statement that the trend of modern tractor engineering consists in putting high power in small packages.

The Model C is built along the same general lines as the Model L, which was announced last spring and which has already won for itself a reputation as a leader.

The Nebraska test on the Model C Case tractor places it squarely in the 2-3 plow class. The Model C is of the 4-cylinder in line type having three forward speeds and reverse, a geared pulley, a high speed differential on the second reduction shaft, and double roller chain final drive inside the cast rear housing where the chains, run in oil.

The Model C tractor was subjected to long hours of unusual strain. Many tests were made with tractors of different design before it was decided by Case engineers to build the Model C.

This tractor is only 48 inches high. It delivered on the maximum belt test at Nebraska 21.81 with the carburetor set for 96.5 of actual maximum load. Had it been set for the limit, no doubt the power developed would have been over 30 horsepower.

In commenting on the remarkable performance of this tractor in its Nebraska test, Farm Implement News makes the following statement in the October 17 issue:

"Something should be said about D. P. Davies, the engineer and tractor designer, for his little engine did something at Nebraska that never has been done before. On maximum belt test this 'C' engine had a fuel consumption of 0.604 pound per horsepower hour. The fuel was kerosene, and there was no water injection to restrain detonation. The cylinder displacement per minute per horsepower was 9.538 cubic inches. Since no water injection was employed, no anti-knock dope in the fuel, it simply means that Mr. Davies accomplished a very beautiful job of engineering when he produced this engine, and the result obtained is no laboratory stunt made possible by abnormally high compression unusable in practical service."

It will be seen from this that while the Model C tractor is small and compact, nevertheless it has the power requirements that place it in the class of larger and more bulky tractors. The outstanding radius is 10 inches, which makes it very adaptable for doing all classes of farm work.

The Model C will be manufactured in several types, as follows, CC cultivator type; CO, orchard type; CI, industrial type.

Orders have been placed with the Atlanta branch for considerable more Model C tractors than have been available for delivery. Every point where the Model C and Model L have been shown much interest is being taken by the farmers, who realize that a more powerful tractor but lighter in weight is going to be necessary in the future. The Model C tractor fully equipped weighs somewhat less than 4,000 pounds.

Daves To Sail.

Chicago, November 3.—(P)—General Charles G. Daves, United States ambassador to Great Britain, will leave Chicago tomorrow for a two-day visit with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson at Washington. He will sail from New York for London Friday.

ATLANTA HOLDS IMPORTANT PLACE AS WASTE CENTER

Atlanta is recognized as an important center for waste materials, several of the larger yards shipping a car or more of different kinds of materials from here every working day.

One of the largest of these is the Knight-Luttrell Iron Company, of 1107 Avon avenue, S. W. This firm has a car storage for 30 cars in its own yards and a busy force of men is at work every day getting shipments ready for several points in this country and every few weeks it sends a boatload from Savannah to Germany and Japan.

It is an interesting sight to see the large 10-ton overhead cranes traveling for more than 100 yards picking up heavy pieces of iron and depositing them in the different cars for shipment. These large cranes are electric magnets and they can pick up four or five car wheels at one time and then drop them where wanted.

Another machine that is interesting to watch in its operation is the large iron-cutting shears. This machine will cut up steel rails like they were pipe stems and a crew of men cuts all kinds of iron into two and three-foot lengths and fills a large car in a few hours' time. Iron of short lengths brings a little higher price for the blast furnaces.

This firm is a large dealer in all kinds of white metals, brass, and bronze, and is paying the highest prices for all they buy. Mr. Luttrell says that the market is extra good right now for waste metals and the company is paying cash for all it can get.

This firm is in the market for all parts of old or wrecked cars, paying a good price for old, broken or leaky radiators, batteries and all kinds of old rubber tubes and tires.

Williams Printing Company Busy With Christmas Cards

Jesse Williams announces that the Williams Printing Company is busy printing Christmas greeting cards for the trade and individual orders.

Although the Williams Printing Company has been noted for high quality work for the past 10 years, the printing and embossing of these Christmas greeting cards is an achievement it is rather proud of.

This firm is printing a very beautiful line of these cards, and the variety in color and design is large enough to please all tastes.

For commercial and financial printing this firm is extra well equipped, having splendid facilities, a good organization of expert workmen, and a large stock of the best of materials to do the work with. In the matter of service, a few hours' time is all that is asked to deliver printed matter as fast as needed.

The Williams Printing Company has always been conveniently located for most of the people of Atlanta and vicinity. It was located for more than nine years in the Throver building, but for the lack of space recently moved to the annex in the Rhodes building, where, in a large, well-lighted shop, it is better equipped than ever.

The proprietor of this firm, Jesse Williams, has "grown up" in the printing business and is an expert workman in all its branches. He supervises all work done by the concern and attributes its steady growth year after year to efforts to please all customers.

COTTON MARKET FALLS SLIGHTLY

BY GEORGE A. DUNAGIN.

The cotton market during the period October 26-November 1 was rather quiet with quotations, however, on November 1 about 5-16c per pound lower than on October 25. A moderate demand was said to prevail for spot cotton in both domestic and foreign markets with the volume of business for the week rather light. Interest continued to be centered on cottons from 7-8 to 1 inch in length of staple, medium to high grades.

Some reports said that merchants continued to accumulate stocks in the better grades and medium staple lengths from 7-8 to 1-1/2 inches. According to the weather bureau, there was some delay by rain to cotton picking in the northeastern portion of the belt early in the week and rather general interruption over central and western portions of the belt during the latter part, but otherwise picking and ginning made good advances. On November 8 the crop reporting board of the department of agriculture will issue a report as to the probable size of the 1929 cotton crop.

Curb stocks were dumped overboard for any price in wild efforts to support marginal accounts of the "big boys" stocks. Despite its limited trading facilities, this market was called upon to handle a turnover of 7,000,000 shares on Tuesday, which, less than a year ago, would have surpassed anything ever experienced on the stock exchange. Limited demand prevailed, and shares dropped 5 and 10, and even 20 points between sales.

Leading shares, however, rallied almost as swiftly as they had fallen late Wednesday and Thursday. The market was closed, along with other leading securities markets, the last two days of the week to permit commission houses to dig out of a deluge of business. Two small, pure deluge of business. Two small, pure deluge of business. Two small, pure deluge of business.

The market was closed, along with other leading securities markets, the last two days of the week to permit commission houses to dig out of a deluge of business. Two small, pure deluge of business. Two small, pure deluge of business.

Cities Service as a feature, turning to a low point of 20, then rallying to its recent peak of 68 1/8, then rallying to close at 37 1/2, more than 2,500,000 shares were traded. Rights which had been issued to purchase new stock at 45 were withdrawn, and trades in them cancelled. They had ranged from 2 1/2 down to 3-8.

Electric Bond and Share, one of the leading issues on the market, continued to hold up well, closing at 30, compared to its peak price of 180. It rallied to 99 7/8 and closed at 95. Electric Investors, recently quoted above 300, dropped to 75 and closed at 145. American Superpower, which has sold up to 71 1/4, touched 10 5/8 and closed at 30 1/2. Niagara Hudson, which has sold at 30 3/4, touched 12 and closed at 18.

Even the oils, which had been fairly stable heretofore, fluctuated wildly. Gulf dropped about 45 points, then reduced its loss to 10. Humble tumbled 34 and rallied 20, from the bottom. In the industrial Fokker Aircraft, which had sold up to 67 1/2 on acquisition of the Fokker by General Motors, dropped to 8, and closed at 25. Aluminum Company dropped 140 points to 210, and closed at 206. Investment trusts were severely hit. Goldman Sachs dropped more than 40 points to 35, and closed at 61 7/8. Blue Ridge common, which was publicly offered last August at 20, hit 3 1/8, and closed at 11 7/8.

CRASH SHOWS MAN STILL MUST WORK

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, November 2.—What happened in our stock market beginning with the last hour of Wednesday last week has been unlike anything seen by oldtimers in Wall Street whose experience goes back to the panic of May 9, 1901, and includes the collapse in 1907, the 1920 boom and the war and after-war markets.

The panic of May 9, 1901, coming on top of a prolonged bull market, lasted a couple of hours. It was caused by the corner created in Northern Pacific in the fight between E. H. Harriman and his bankers, and James J. Hill and his financial backers, over control of Northern Pacific.

Practically all of the outstanding stock of Northern Pacific had been purchased in the open market by the Harriman and Hill forces. The price had been bid up to a level where short selling was invited. Harriman and Hill would not sell any of their stock and efforts of the short sellers to get stock to cover ran the price up to $1,000 a share with the rest of the market breaking anywhere from 5 to 60 points or more in a couple of hours.

The bankers behind the two railroad leaders stood together around noon, the price at which the shorts would be allowed to cover, and the panic ended.

Other Selling Periods.

The panic on 1903 started with rich men trying to convert over-production of new speculative securities into cash. It lasted for months. The panic of October, 1907, really started in the early months of that year. It was a money panic and the selling of stocks lasted for months. Since the war we have witnessed repeated periods of heavy selling in the stock market lasting for a month or more.

What has happened since the last hour last Wednesday a week ago has been more like the May 9, 1901, panic, only worse and lasting longer. Coming on top of a month's drastic decline in prices, each day, after Friday, Wednesday a week ago, made frightened holders of long stock still having paper profits more determined to sell at any price. This, with distress selling on the part of large and small holders of stock, brought about the heavy liquidation and the worst price decline in the history of Wall Street.

Soundness Shown.

Day after day, oldtimers in Wall Street were more amazed that nothing cracked in the face of the story the ticker was telling in the avalanche of selling and the unprecedented price drop. As yet, the market is showing no signs of fundamental soundness beyond anything in the history of Wall Street. Millions of large and small traders from one end of the country to the other were all trying to sell at once, creating a situation the exact reverse of that of recent years when buyers were bidding against each other making the unprecedented bull stock market possible. Paper profits were wiped out the past week running in many cases to heavy actual losses. But as large as the actual losses were, the average trader in the stock market from New York to San Francisco still had a bank balance. This is the fundamental difference between the stock market panic just experienced and other panics back to 1901.

In a short story just published here, Philip Gibbs tells how the mind of the average citizen has been unshackled since the war. Shortly before the war broke out he ran across a man in an English village that was sexton of a small church, holding the same job his ancestors had held back to the 14th century. This man perfectly contented was picked up by the war and carried to a far country, returning a different man.

Attitudes Changed.

After stating that all of us have been thinking differently more or less as a result of the war, Gibbs points out what the automobile and radio and movie have done to help us look over our pre-war garden wall.

Gibbs might have added that what has just happened in our stock market is the result of a whole nation financially looking over the garden wall. The old story of how during the war our big outside public became acquainted for the first time with a bond; how the purchase of those bonds on the partial payment plan and the subsequent purchase of stocks on the installment plan plus our greatly increased wealth and earning power was the beginning of our unprecedented bull market. If there ever was a basis for Foreign Markets Quiet.

Foreign markets reported a quiet to good inquiry for American cotton. Liverpool said that demand for actual cotton in that market was very quiet for sales of American for the week about 20,000 bales. The supported undertone of that market was partly attributed to the partial recovery on the New York exchange and the reduction in the Bank of England rates which created a better general feeling. Manchester said that a good spot demand prevailed in that market; however, the business was reported as limited. Yarn and cloth demand was quiet with buyers rather unsettled due to adverse conditions affected by outside factors and financial stringency. Bremen said that demand for American in that market was poor but that the basis of offers was firm. Milan said that about the usual demand prevailed for American cotton during the past week with Italian spinners buying principally near shipments. A good deal of price fixing by spinners was reported. A better demand for Indian cotton was also in evidence. Yarns were fairly active.

RUSSIA TO HIRE 300 AMERICANS IN TRACTOR PLANT

Moscow, November 3.—(P)—The Soviet government today decided to engage 300 skilled American workmen, including technicians and engineers, for work at the Stalingrad tractor plant.

With the aid of the Americans, the government hopes to increase the number of tractors in next year's output from 10,000 to 25,000.

The Soviet intends to send a special commission to America soon to purchase several million dollars' worth of equipment for the tractor plant.

DIVIDEND SEEN FOR BLUE RIDGE

New York, November 3.—(AP)—The Blue Ridge Corporation, $100,000,000 investment trust formed by Goldman Sachs-Harrison Williams interests last August, has declared the first regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, payable in 75 cents cash or 1-32 of a share of common stock. Blue Ridge stocks suffered a severe collapse in the recent crash of the market. The common, which was offered to the public at $20 a share, tumbled to $2.12 and closed Thursday at $1.57. The preferred offered at $51.50, dropped to $26.12 and closed at $31.50.

The corporation announces that the cash income for the current quarter by period is more than sufficient to meet the cash dividend requirements, without taking into account profits realized on the sale of securities. It states that the shrinkage in the market value of its holdings during the stock market crash is materially less than the paid in surplus of the corporation, that based on closing quotations of October 31, the assets behind each share of preferred stock $50 par were over $96 a share, and that the corporation owes no money.

The assets taken at the closing quotation of October 31 totaled $119,000,000, including more than $13,000,000 in cash and call loans, $31,000,000 in bonds and preferred stocks and $75,000,000 in common stocks. No single investment exceeded over 9 per cent of total assets. Investments were listed in the following companies: American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Commercial Investment Trust, Detroit Edison, Electric Investors, General American Tank, General Clear, General Electric, General Foods, Gillette, International Shoe, International Telephone, Lumber, McCall Company, McKesson & Robbins, Matheson Alkali, National Dairy, North American, Pacific Gas, Pacific Lighting, Southern California Edison, Stone & Webster, Texas Corporation, Truax Coal, United Biscuit and Warner Brothers.

the City of Utica has remarkable advantages in its location. The Mohawk Valley is the great east and west transportation route—50 miles north are the Adirondack Mountains from which come water and power in abundance; 100 miles south are the Pennsylvania coal mines. Situated on the main line of the New York Central Railroad, it is in direct communication with Chicago and the great markets to the west; to the east is the New England market, and to the southeast the shipping port of New York City opens up the markets of the world.

Manufacturing is well diversified, the principal industries being textiles and clothing, metal products and kindred lines.

Utica is a City of homes, with an extensive park system. Due to its strategic position it enjoys the best of railroad, electric power, water, gas and other public utility facilities. Excellent trolley service in all directions carries passengers from five to eight miles for a single fare.

The City has a population of well over 110,000, having increased nearly 100% since 1900.

The Consolidated Water Company of Utica, N. Y.

(now an Operating Unit of the General Water Works and Electric Group) was incorporated on November 13, 1899, and furnishes water to the City of Utica and certain contiguous smaller communities of an estimated population in excess of 135,000. The Company operates without competition in its territory and has satisfactory relations with its public.

The recent acquisition of this Company—an evidence of the sound, progressive policy of the General Water Works and Electric Corporation management—is part of the program which has already contributed to the rapid expansion shown in the following tabulation:

The Business Barometer

BY THEODORE H. PRICE
Editor, Commerce and Finance, New York.

The probability of what happened in Wall Street last week has been pointed out in these reviews for many months past. Therefore it is hardly necessary to hold an autopsy over the dead boom or aggravate the distress of those who lost money by saying, "I told you so."

The episode now ended was largely psychological in character, as were the South Sea bubble and the Mississippi bubble. Like the two last-named, it was an attempt to discount the future by millions who became the victims of their own enthusiasm and lost their money as a result.

There can be no doubt about the economic soundness and growth of the United States. Neither of them will be seriously disturbed by what happened last week, but even those plants which grow most vigorously do not always grow constantly, and the greatest prosperity for its vicissitudes.

This is about the best explanation that can be offered for the collapse of the bull movement on the New York Stock Exchange, some time before the exchanges of the country. There is no likelihood whatever of its immediate resuscitation, but many well-seasoned securities are now to be had upon a basis that is attractive, and the investor's opportunity has come as that of the speculator has passed.

Large Trading.
Lurid stories of the week's excitement have been published in nearly all the daily papers. It is not necessary that they should be retold here. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange has reached a volume that would have seemed unbelievable two years ago, and will probably continue large until most of the stocks held on margin have been redistributed amongst capitalists who have the money to pay for its vicissitudes.

This process will probably take several weeks, after which a period of comparative quietude is due. Such a period is hoped for, as the machinery as well as the personnel of the stock exchange organization has been severely taxed for months past.

Next to their activity and the liquidation that it has effected, the most important feature of the American stock markets has been the change in attitude toward common stocks that last week's quotations bespeak. Three or four years ago some American students of investment procedure surprised the world by undertaking to pay the same return on good corporations were worth more than bonds, and in England as "ordinary," even though they had to be purchased at prices on which their earnings would yield less than bond interest for perhaps two or three years to come.

Won't Sell at Highs.
While the stock boom lasted the market seemed to recede, the validity of this theory, and those who acted upon it have profited largely if they got out in time. It is, however, unlikely that many of them were able to realize while the market was up, as the pertinacity of holders during a period of rising prices is one of the strange peculiarities of human nature.

As this as it may, the approach when it may be practicable to buy good common stocks at a price that is equal to from 8 to 12 times the annual earnings, which is a standard of value that none experienced has demonstrated to be sound, and the quotation lists published in the daily papers should now be carefully scanned in an effort to discover opportunities of this sort.

Another widely accepted belief of the past two or three years which may now be discarded is the philosophy of the "new era," which may be described as an assumption that business is now so stable and its management so skillful that depressions and panics are no longer likely.

COTTON HOLDS UP WELL UNDER STRESS

New Orleans, November 3.—(AP)—Cotton has been influenced during the past week to great extent foreign to the market itself. In other words the tremendous fluctuations and unprecedented liquidation in stocks have controlled cotton prices rather than the ordinary developments connected with the weather or the crop now being marketed. Nevertheless, considering the widespread influence the gyrations in the stock market exerted on general financial affairs, cotton has been held up remarkably well. Thus at the lowest price of the week January contracts were only 29 points, or a shade less than $2 a bale, below the closing level of a week ago.

There was naturally considerable liquidation of long accounts in Wall Street and other interests to protect deals in the stock market, and there was moreover considerable selling by timid traders who deemed it best to be out of the market for the time being. As there was practically no speculative buying to absorb the offerings, the market was largely dependent upon trade buying which fortunately was in fairly liberal volume, although mainly on scale down orders.

Of course the market rallied some from the lowest of Tuesday with the partial recovery in stocks, but once the security market showed signs of recovering, other and more legitimate market influences came into play, such for instance as the fear that the so-called private authorities in the end of the month reports were likely to increase estimates of the crop and that the government itself in its report of November 3, based on reports of November 3, was likely also to increase its estimate of a month ago. This view of things started liquidation afresh and the market closed at the low points of the week.

So far two private crop reports have appeared, one making the indicated yield 15,200,000 bales in round figures and the other 14,700,000 bales. A large crop of these private estimates is looked for during the coming week.

The following shows the high, low and close sales in the New Orleans futures market during the past week compared with a year ago:

	High	Low	Close	Last Year
December	18.12	17.80	17.82	18.82
January	18.37	17.91	17.92	18.64
March	18.62	18.20	18.20	18.58
May	18.86	18.40	18.43	18.47
July	18.99	18.59	18.59	18.52

The severe decline of the securities markets last week had its effect on cocoa prices, which declined from 11 to 17 points. Receipts of raw cocoa beans during October totaled 22,465 bags, compared with 68,130 bags in October, 1928.

BONDS TO REGAIN LOSSES OF WEEK

New York, November 3.—(AP)—Bonds were liquidated in substantial amounts last week as holders sold their securities to obtain funds for the protection of their stock market accounts. Losses were rather large in the Tuesday session, when the panicky fear of a severe decline in stock values was melting, and first-grade bonds and other prime investment bonds showed extensive declines. Part of the selling was attributable to nervousness, but in the short trading week, as equity issue quotations turned upward, there was a tendency to dispose of fixed income securities to provide funds for stock purchases.

Despite the setback, which caused a large part of the gains the market had made during the first three weeks of the month, observers are confident that bonds will again catch their stride, and that investment demand will be strengthened as the security markets regain their balance after the recent period of stress and uncertainty. The shakeouts in stocks, it is pointed out, should benefit bonds particularly in better grade loans.

Large dealers report that it is difficult to buy good bonds, although they are willing to do so, whereas a few weeks ago during the period of falling prices there was a disposition to await bottom levels.

United States government securities gave a good account of themselves last week. The Federal Reserve bank was a heavy buyer on Tuesday when it appeared as though there might be a money squeeze. Some of the purchasing was also done by limited investors in search of a haven for funds.

Convertible were severely depressed by the crash of stocks, American Telephone 4-1-2 struck the new low of 115, as contrasted with their high of 227, and their offering price to stockholders on a "rights" basis six months ago. International Telephone 4-1-2 dropped to 118, more than 100 points below their high of last August, and American I. G. Chemical 5-1-2 tumbled to 95, at which figure they were floated last in the spring. There was a brisk rally in stock privilege issues on the upturn in stocks, however, and the losses were considerably reduced.

New bond financing dropped to $2,200,000 from $4,530,000 the week before the total for the corresponding period of 1928 was $99,305,000. Foreign obligations suffered heavily and a large number of new loans was scattered throughout the group, which had been showing marked improvement.

Quitman Court.

Quitman, Ga., November 3.—(Special)—The November term of superior court will convene here Monday, with Judge W. E. Thomas, of Valdosta, presiding. The grand jury will be organized Monday and the civil docket be taken up. The second week the docket of criminal cases will be disposed of.

OUR CLUB—By Seckatary Hawkins

THOUGHT I KNEW those FEATHERS I TOOK FROM A WHITE WISKERED MAN OFF AT OUR LANDING. I LOOKED AROUND THE SHACK AGAIN. I DIDN'T FIND LEW, BUT I DID FIND A BUNCH OF WHITE CHICKEN FEATHERS.

WHY YES, HE SAID, "I SOLD ONE TO A FELLOW THE OTHER DAY." THEN I ASKED HER IF THE BOY WORE A LONG OVERCOAT. "YES," HE SAID, "WE'RE LOOKING FOR HIM?" "NO MA-AM," I SAID, "NOT EXACTLY."

I STARTED FOR HOME. I KNEW NOW THAT LEW WAS LIVING IN THE SHACK. I KNEW HE GOT THE CHICKEN FROM DOBELL'S. WAS KIND OF AFRAID HE SWIPED IT. I'M GLAD TO KNOW THAT HE PAID FOR IT HONEST.
